Hunt Called Off On Bay Boat Tragedy

The Coast Guard today called off the search for two men missing after a boating tragedy that claimed the lives of five others in Marin waters Sunday.

The search yesterday and this morning with two helicopters and two 40-foot cutters was ended at 11:30 a.m. (See picture on page 2.)

One of the missing men, Salvador Sorro Sr., 32, was a former Larkspur resident and once studied at College of Marin. He and all others involved, including three boys, were residents of San Francisco at the time of the drownings.

The seven left Joe's Boat Landing in Gallinas Slough, Santa Venetia, late Sunday morning, bound for McNear's Beach. They were in a 14-foot plywood boat with a 40-horsepower motor. When located with its seven occupants, the gunwales were probably no more than eight inches above the water, the Coast Guard reported.

The empty boat was spotted by another pleasure craft south of Racon Straits at 10:20 a.m. yesterday soon after the party was reported missing by Sorro's

Rails Approve Anti-Strike Plan By JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top railroad management approved today President John F. Kennedy's formula for heading off a nationwide strike but stood by the plan to apply on schedule—unless Congress acts earlier on Kennedy's proposal—the work rules that unions have adopted as a walkout signal.

Barring a change, that means a strike by the unions of on-train workers is still on for 12:01 a.m. next Tuesday unless Congress has passed by that time the Kennedy bill to turn the dispute over to the Interstate Commerce Commission for binding settlement.

The unanimous decision of the 20-member board of directors of the Assn. of American Railroads was announced shortly after congressional leaders had indicated uncertainty that Congress can act in time and had appealed indirectly for further delay if needed.

The action came as Congress took up the president's emergency plan.

Fire Fighters Battle National Forest Blaze

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — Fire fighters today battled flames in a remote section of Los Padres National Forest and officials saw little hope for control before sundown.

The U. S. Forest Service said the fire that has been raging since noon yesterday blackened an estimated 1,200 acres of valuable watershed, timber and recreation land by mid-morning today.

SEC Stock Suggestions Endorsed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission gave a general endorsement today to a study group's recommendations for a sweeping overhaul of stock exchanges, but called for consultations with the securities industry before final action on the proposals.

The suggested measures include the elimination of personal buying and selling of floor traders of the New York Stock Exchange, tighter controls over specialists, and new systems for handling small transactions on the exchanges.

The recommendations were in the second installment of a massive study of the whole securities industry, made by a special committee of the SEC. The installment was released last week.

Commission Chairman William L. Gary, in a letter to the House and Senate committees, did not soften the special committee's recommendations as to the New York Stock Exchange, the Big Board, other exchanges and over-the-counter markets.

But Gary's letter said, "in most cases we are required to solicit and consider the views of interested persons before making any final decisions."

"Moreover, we believe that the responsible course of action calls for discussions with the securities industry before definitive actions are taken."

Israeli Fighters Fire On Two MIGs

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli fighters fired on two Egyptian MIGs that flew over Israel today and scored hits on one intruder, an Israeli army spokesman announced.

The spokesman said the two Communist-built planes penetrated Israeli air space over the Nitzana area.

For Mental Health County Is Facing Serious Problem

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The need to provide adequate facilities for treating mental illness is growing in Marin. The Marin Mental Health Foundation was organized recently to help meet this growing need. To help inform the public about this problem and the activities of the foundation, the IJ offers a series of four special articles, of which this is the first. A brochure describing the specific purpose and goals of the Foundation may be obtained by writing Mrs. William Nicolls, Secretary, P. O. Box 7, Ross, Calif.)

One of the most serious problems facing fast-growing Marin County today is that of adequate facilities for the treatment of mental illness.

Study after study has pointed up the need for immediate improvements in mental health care in Marin.

Despite the development of some considerable awareness that mental illnesses are treated most effectively when cared for near home, this concept was turned down by the people of Marin when put to its first test in November, 1957. A proposed bond issue for the construction of a mental care facility at Marin General Hospital was soundly defeated at the polls.

Public awareness, obviously, had not been developed to a sufficient extent.

Then, some three and one-half years ago, private enterprise provided the initiative and the funds for construction of a psychiatric wing at privately-owned Ross General Hospital. Its use has exceeded all estimates and expectations; it has been of great value in providing Marin residents with effective inpatient care, close to their families, jobs and homes.

Despite recent additions, however, it has only 24 beds

Governor May Delay Naming Castro Successor Till Friday

Gov. Edmund G. Brown will make no appointment to the Marin County Board of Supervisors before tomorrow, his press secretary said today.

The appointment may be delayed until Friday, depending on when the governor is able to leave on his projected trip to Europe.

Governor Brown had planned to leave Sacramento tonight, and go to Europe after an appointment in Washington, D.C., on Thursday morning. However, said Jack Burby, his press secretary, Brown is awaiting completion of the special session of the legislature before starting his European trip.

If the legislature winds up tomorrow, the governor will fly to Washington tomorrow night and will go on to Europe without returning to Sacramento. If, however, the legislature is still in session, he will return from Washington Thursday evening, hoping to be able to leave for Europe by the end of the week.

Partial Test Ban Accord Reached

Further Cold War Talks On

MOSCOW (UPI) — United States, British and Soviet negotiators today sealed a partial nuclear test ban accord that ended five years of East-West diplomatic deadlock and then plunged into talks on other key issues that could further thaw the cold war, diplomatic sources said.

The sources said today's session ended the nuclear phase of the three-power Moscow talks and cleared the way for initialing tomorrow on the agreement to end East-West nuclear tests in space, in the atmosphere and under water.

DUE IN MOSCOW
Washington sources said Secretary of State Dean Rusk might fly to Moscow for the test ban treaty ceremonies which would coincide with a Moscow summit conference of East European Communist leaders aimed at closing Red ranks against Communist China.

U.S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and British Secretary of State Lord Hailsham held two sessions today on the eighth working day of their historic conference.

Mill Valley Calls Off Closed Meet

By BRUCE COLEMAN

There was to have been a closed meeting of the Mill Valley city council at noon today in San Francisco's Franklin Hospital but, after a series of somewhat baffling events, the meeting was apparently canceled.

Three councilmen were invited, but Councilman George Blackwell feigned surprise on hearing of the meeting, saying he was not invited. Councilman William E. Secor said he knew nothing about it.

Mayor Joseph E. Sheeks said the meeting was to "talk about a number of administrative matters. We plan to explore the question of the work load in the building inspector's department, what the work load is in the planning department" and whether the finance department is "overloaded."

Councilman Michael Wornum said the subject was "hiring or firing of an employee."

City Mgr. A. E. Almerants said the meeting was to be to discuss personnel and that he was invited to be present. "If there's going to be a meeting, I will be there," he said. "If it's about personnel, I have to be there."

AT HOSPITAL
Wornum said the meeting would be closed and would be held over lunch at the office of councilman George D. Monardo at the hospital, of which Monardo is administrator.

Sheeks, in a telephone conversation with the Independent-Journal, said "Monardo, Wornum and myself will be present." However, at the end of the conversation Sheeks said "the city council is having a meeting which is not a meeting to discuss problems. I won't be there. I guess it will just be a social luncheon."

Monardo could not be reached at his office. His secretary told the Independent-Journal that Monardo had telephoned saying there would be no meeting at the hospital today in connection with City of Mill Valley business because "he's tied up with other matters."

"No sir," said Councilman William E. Secor when asked if he had been invited to attend the noon meeting. He said he knew nothing of it. "That's one committee I'm not on," he added.

Motor Can Be Turned Off, On In Space

SACRAMENTO (AP) — America's first rocket motor capable of being turned off and on in space was test-fired successfully today by the Aerojet-General Corp.

Air Force Brig. Gen. Joseph Bleymaier, director of the Titan III program, called the static test firing "a truly significant event."

"There is no question that the test was a complete success," he said. "We are truly confident as to the capable design of this engine at this early stage."

ZUCKERT WATCHES
Air Force Secretary Eugene Zuckert, on a tour of western states, watched as the twin liquid-fuel engines sent white vapor clouds rolling over the sprawling test site in the Sierra foothills east of California's capital.

The two motors, each generating 800,000 pounds of thrust, will fit in the third stage of the Titan III missile, which will be used for Dyna-Soar man-in-space project.

Dyna-Soar will boost two men into orbit sometime after 1965.

FUEL SYSTEM
The two engines, fed by a newly designed fuel system, were fired for 30 seconds, turned off, fired again for five seconds, turned off and then fired for five minutes — one minute short of the scheduled six-minute final firing time.

An Aerojet spokesman said heat building up in the motors was responsible for stopping the test early.

Buddhist Nun Offers To Burn Self

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A 67-year-old Buddhist nun, mother of a South Vietnamese ambassador in Africa, volunteered today to burn herself to death to help Buddhists win religious equality and social justice.

A government-organized demonstration of wounded war veterans tried unsuccessfully to storm Xa Loi pagoda while the nun related her offer to newsmen in a guarded upstairs room.

The Buddhists association said it would do everything it could to stop her.

"I do not need their authorization," the nun, Dieu Hue, said. "I will kill myself by whatever means are possible, even if my superiors try to prevent me."

She declined to say when or where she would carry out her threat.

Dieu Hue is the mother of Buu Hoi, ambassador to Morocco, Tunisia and other African states. He also is a member of Viet Nam's Atomic Energy Commission and the French Cancer Institute.

Dieu Hue, speaking through an interpreter, said she planned to follow the example of the Rev. Quang Duc, a Buddhist monk who burned himself to death on a Saigon street June 11.

Ward Vice Trial Girl Tells Of Her Lovers

COMBINED AP & UPI

LONDON — Call girl Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies told the jury in the Stephen Ward vice trial today that her lovers included former actor Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Viscount Astor.

The 18-year-old blonde associate of Christine Keeler took the stand on the second day of the trial of the society osteopath and artist charged with running a stable of call girls for wealthy Londoners.

Earlier in the Old Bailey Court, two young women testified that Ward seduced them in the weekend cottage he rented on Lord Astor's Cliveden estate. There was no suggestion, however, that he turned them to prostitution. Mandy testified that Ward introduced her to Lord Astor, 53, son of the Virginia-born Nancy Lady Astor, and that Astor paid the rent on an apartment she shared with Christine from early January 1961 until March 28, 1961. But she said she did not have sexual intercourse with him until two years later.

"Were you having intercourse with any other man or men at this flat?" prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones asked.

"Peter Rachman," Mandy replied, referring to a property racketeer who died last year. "With anybody else?" "Douglas Fairbanks."

"Anyone else?" "Were you paid by anyone?" "No, except Peter Rachman. He kept me. I had a weekly allowance."

Fairbanks is the son of the late silent film star and himself a former Hollywood actor. He makes films for television, has lived in England for many years and is a close friend of the royal family.

Ward, 50, son of an Anglican clergyman, pleaded innocent yesterday to five charges of living off the earnings of prostitution and procuring girls for other men.

Last night Mandy was a star attraction at a packed preview of 145 portraits Ward painted in his sideline of magazine artist.

Prices ranged from 35 to 500 guineas ($102.90 to $1,470).

Ward was on hand with his new girl friend, Julia Gulliver.

22. Miss Gulliver does not figure in his trial.

Mandy came early and stayed late. She made her entrance like a movie star, swiveling through the crowd and waving her blonde hair at bawdy shouts from friends.

In the middle of the crowd of beautiful girls, newsmen and art critics stood a friend with a bottle of vintage champagne. "Here's to Stephen! Good old Stephen!" Mandy shouted as she grabbed the bottle by the neck.

A heckler shouted to her. Mandy answered with one unprintable word and stuck out her tongue.

The showroom grew warmer. Mandy, a brush of white from the freshly white-washed walls, smearing her tight pink dress, gasped and said, "Now I know what Liz Taylor feels like."

The Daily Express dismissed the portraits as "drawings," but said that "as such, they were excellent."

The Daily Telegraph, which sent Ward to Israel to sketch the Eichman trial, said Ward has "a genuine, if tiny, talent," producing recognizable portraits that "do not convey any sense of the individual's character."

Woman Crushed To Death In Car

MADERA (AP) — Mrs. Daye Muriel Hall, 55, of Raymond, was crushed to death at the wheel of her car yesterday after her auto and a truck collided 14 miles northeast of Madera.

Highway patrol officers said that had not Mrs. Hall's passenger, Robert Rushing, 21, of Raymond, been thrown from the car at the time of the collision he would have been killed also.

Rushing suffered only minor injuries.

Officers identified the driver of the truck as Alfred J. Harris, 48, of Fresno.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Jews Hit Russ Anti-Semitism

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three leading American Jewish organizations have charged that the Soviet government was guilty of "shocking distortions" about anti-Semitism in the United States.

The charge was made yesterday in an open letter to Izvestia, official organ of the Soviet government, signed by A. M. Sonnabend, president of the American Jewish Committee; Dr. Joachim Prinz, president of the American Congress, and Label Katz, president of B'nai B'rith.

The three groups said the Soviets had made the distortions of fact in order to divert world attention from the official Soviet policy of prejudice and discrimination against its own three million Jewish citizens.

According to Sonnabend, Prinz and Katz, anti-Semitism in the United States today "is at its lowest level in American history."

Brando Home From Hospital

SANTA MONICA (UPI)—Actor Marlon Brando, home today after six days in a hospital for treatment of a kidney ailment, planned to talk with Negro leaders to make new arrangements for his participation in civil rights demonstrations in the South.

The 39-year-old actor was released from St. John's Hospital yesterday, but his physician said it would be at least two weeks before Brando could leave his home.

Dr. Robert J. Kostichuk also made official records public "because of talk over the weekend that Brando was faking illness" in order to avoid flying to Cambridge, Md., to take part in a demonstration and also to dodge a paternity suit filed against him.

140 Firemen Battle Blaze

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A three alarm fire broke out in a stack of old tire casings and destroyed several storage sheds and a meat packing building last night before 140 firemen were able to control it.

The fire, which sent a mushroom of black smoke high in the air, was located at a Hunters Point area auto wrecking yard.

Several sheds owned by the auto wrecking company and a storage building of the James Allan and Sons Meat Packing Co. were leveled by the flames. No one was hurt in the fire.

$650,000 Blaze

SAN LEANDRO (AP)—Magne-sium in a fire-swept airplane engine shop made things too hot today for the fire department.

"All we could do was pour water on it to keep it from other buildings," said Fire Chief Manuel Rodriguez.

Owners of the Flight Power Inc. plant estimated the loss at $650,000. The plant rebuilds airplane engines.

All of San Leandro's 65-man fire department fought the blaze.

Snorkel Saves Man

OAKLAND (AP)—Oakland firemen used their new $50,000 snorkel to lift a fire victim from his sixth story hotel room on a stretcher and set him down on the street beside an ambulance.

Paul Mirelez, 26, suffered burns and smoke inhalation. The Travelers Hotel elevator was too small to accommodate a stretcher. So the snorkel was called for. It is a huge, crane-like contraption, carrying a cab that can be raised to 100 feet and brought down like an elevator.

This newest equipment is used for both rescue and fire fighting.

Negro Pickets Block Trucks, Carried Away

NEW YORK (AP)—Antidiscrimination pickets repeatedly blocked work trucks from entering a hospital construction site in Brooklyn and 55 were carried away by police.

But the civil rights demonstration appeared to be a token effort when compared to the picketing which produced mass arrests yesterday.

Their leaders, set to confer later with Mayor Robert F. Wagner, had not called for concerted civil disobedience today in the fight against alleged union bias against Negroes in the building industry.

LAY IN PATH

Nevertheless, some pickets sat, knelt or lay in the paths of heavy trucks and refused to move.

Other pickets resumed a demonstration at a public housing construction project in Manhattan, another scene of multiple arrests yesterday and began a protest at an apartment building site in Queens.

At the outset of the Queens demonstration, the 200 demonstrators stood passively in driveways and were shoved aside by police to allow construction vehicles to enter.

Two persons were arrested in Queens, including the demonstration leader, William Booth, a lawyer and chairman of the Jamaica branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

MASS ARRESTS

Mass arrests were made yesterday when some 1,000 demonstrators sat down or paraded in the path of construction trucks. Many refused to budge.

About 300 were hauled bodily into police vans, and 22 of them were arrested. The rest, mainly juveniles, were released later, along with those arrested.

Today's pickets, the majority of them Negroes, were following the tactics of yesterday's demonstration. They had been told by Negro leaders at a rally last night that they were not being asked to engage in a civil disobedience today.

But the Rev. Gerald S. White, a Negro pastor, told newsmen that if the pickets wanted to stage sit-downs today, it was all right with the demonstration leaders.

Arlene Francis Sued: $1 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Arlene Francis has been sued for one million dollars by a Brooklyn man whose wife was killed in an auto accident.

The suit, filed in State Supreme Court yesterday by Joseph Arcos, 34, charged negligence. Mrs. Rose Arcos, 34, died in the May 26 collision on Long Island. Arcos and three others in his car were injured.

Miss Francis suffered a broken collar bone, a minor concussion and cuts and bruises.

She Flees To West To Wear Bluejeans

BERLIN (UPI)—A 20-year-old refugee said yesterday she escaped to West Berlin because her stepfather tried to make her believe in communism by preventing her from listening to western radio, watching western television and wearing bluejeans.

Barbara Huckle, 20, a blue-eyed blonde, called her stepfather a "top dog" among Communists in the Berlin suburb of Potsdam. She identified him as Lt. Col. Heinz Stahn, a police official.

Stahn was a long-time Communist and supporter of East German boss Walter Ulbricht, and an officer in the Volks-polizei (people's police) air defense command, Miss Huckle said.

She said she quarrelled with him about the Communist way of life so often that first she moved away from home and later decided to flee to the West.

With two friends, an 18-year-old girl and a 25-year-old man, she crept through the "forbidden zone" into West Berlin one night last week. The Communists border guards did not notice the escape.

"I can't yet believe that I was so lucky," she said in the Marienfelde refugee camp here.

She was wearing a new pink wool sweater and tan denim jeans.

"I bought the jeans with the first pocket-money they gave me at the refugee camp," she said. "Before the wall went up, I used to go to the films in West Berlin, which caused an awful row at home."

"One time I also bought a pair of American blue jeans. That started a dreadful fuss with my stepfather, so of course I became passionately fond of them. So the first thing I bought over here was a new pair."

Her stepfather forbade her to listen to West Berlin radio or watch West Berlin television because the Communists oppose all such "western" influences, she said.

Miss Huckle said she learned to parrot the Communist line in technical school where she was training as a veterinarian assistant.

"I placed second in the political lessons," she said. "It was not difficult for me to say what people wanted to hear."

"Otherwise over there a person doesn't have a chance."

Born during the war—her father died when she was a child—she was educated wholly under the Communist system.

The girl said the Berlin wall increased the strain between her Communist stepfather and herself.

She told him she could not accept his answer that the wall was "an anti-fascist defense for the people." She argued communism "has no right to hold people back if they want to go and live under capitalism."

She said she enjoyed history and politics but found it was impossible to discuss them openly or to question the Communist versions.

New Traffic Record Set On Gate Bridge

An average of about 51 cars a minute crossed the Golden Gate Bridge Sunday, setting a new traffic record.

Strawberry Teen Club Gets Room

Mill Valley School District trustees last night granted use of the multi-purpose room at Strawberry Point School to the Strawberry Teen Club after it was reported that teen-agers had exhibited very "responsible behavior" when using the room on July 18. The use is to continue throughout the summer.

The teen club is sponsored by the Strawberry Recreation District.

The board employed Mrs. Robert C. Berreman of San Rafael to replace Mrs. A. Denk as sixth grade teacher at Alto School. Mrs. Denk had previously been granted a leave of absence for the 1963-64 school year. Mrs. Berreman has taught two years at Lemon Grove, San Diego County.

Mrs. John S. O'Brien, Alto School third grade teacher, was granted a year's maternity leave.

A display of art work by her summer school pupils was presented by Mrs. Marjorie Wiley.

The board will meet but once in August, according to Supt. G. R. McConnell: Aug. 5 for a public hearing on the 1963-64 budget.

American Nazi Case Due Jury

EMPORIA, Va. (AP)—An October grand jury will consider charges that American Nazi leader George Lincoln Rockwell and two followers conspired to stir up racial violence here.

The cases of Rockwell, Roy James, 25, and Donald Willey, 21, all of Arlington, Va., were certified to the jury yesterday after preliminary hearing in county court. They were arrested last Friday night as Rockwell prepared to speak in front of Town Hall.

Rockwell, who was freed on $1,500 bond, has been calling for a counter-march by white people to the proposed Aug. 28 march of civil rights advocates into Washington.

Youths Climb Bridge Tower Roped Together

Three Menlo College students turned alpinists early today on the Golden Gate Bridge and nearly made it to the top of the north tower.

A bus driver noticed movement on the tower about 2:30 a.m. and informed the California Highway Patrol.

Highway Patrolmen Richard Treadwell and K. M. Stoffer and Sausalito Police Sgt. Theodore Zink directed a spotlight through the muck. About 40 feet below the top of the 790-foot tower, they saw three figures, tied together with rope in the manner of mountain climbers.

Using a portable loudspeaker, the officers talked the three into descending.

Down, backwards, came Michael Darwin Owen, 18, of Long Beach; Louis Henry Sackmann, 17, of Arroyo Grande, San Luis Obispo County, and George Cunningham Nickum, 17, of Bainbridge Island, Wash. They had used two steel hooks to fasten a length of nylon rope to the steel bridge cables as they made their laborious ascent through the darkness high above the Golden Gate.

Owen was jailed under $56 bail on charges of illegally climbing the bridge, to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon. The two 17-year-olds were placed in Marin Juvenile Hall.

Why did they climb the tower? The answer was simple. They did it, they said, because they "wanted to."

Mental Patient In Death Plunge

NEW YORK (AP)—The man who plunged more than 1,000 feet to his death from the Empire State Building was a former mental patient, police say.

Shaking off a guard, the man scaled an eight-foot barrier yesterday and jumped from the observation deck on the 86th floor. His body barely missed dozens of pedestrians on 34th Street.

He was George A. Frost, 35, a former operator on merchant ships. Police said he had worked recently as a porter and dishwasher and had lived in small hotels.

Police said Frost had been a patient three times at Pilgrim State Hospital on Long Island.

Six Mobile Classrooms To Be Used

Six mobile classrooms to be used at the Meadow Park School on Hamilton Air Force Base were rented at $14,600 a year from California Cargo of Hayward last night by the San Jose School District.

The district board accepted California Cargo's low bid, totaling $43,800 for three years, after considering three other offers. Crown Coach of Los Angeles bid $17,407.50 a year; Mobile Rentals of Los Angeles, $17,250 a year, and Dublin-wide of Oxnard, $16,800.

The board commended a group of some 35 teachers' aides and junior aides who have assisted district teachers with playground and classroom activities during the summer session.

The junior aides, around 14 years old, earned about $1 a day. The older group, college age, made about $1 an hour.

"A number of the aides' parents were there and said the program helped the children have a better understanding of the teacher's role," said Asst. Supt. Duane Moeller.

Behr Says Bodega Bay Plant Bad For Marin

County Supervisor Peter Behr warned today that the proposed Bodega Head nuclear power plant "will affect Marin County as much as or more than Sonoma County, in terms of prevailing winds."

But his effort to stir his fellow supervisors into a position of opposition failed.

"My area is closest to the suggested plant," said Supervi-

Communities Ask For A-Plant

PACIFICA — Now about all that fuss over building a nuclear power plant at Bodega Bay, why not build it on the coast south of San Francisco.

That's the suggestion put to Pacific Gas and Electric Co. by three Chambers of Commerce — Pacifica, Half Moon Bay and Princeton by the Sea.

A letter to Robert H. Gerdes, PG&E president, written on the letterhead of the Pacifica Chamber of Commerce, said:

"It is our opinion that this would be a step in tune with the progressive spirit of our area, one of the state's fastest growing sections and one which holds great promise in California's future."

Conservationists are putting up a fight against PG&E plans for a plant at Bodega Bay. They contend it would pose a poisonous threat to an area of great natural beauty.

Stewart Udall, Secretary of the Interior, raised questions as to whether the site is too close to an earthquake fault.

Teeners Move To Death Row

CARSON CITY, Nev. — Two teen-age convicted killers, scheduled to die in the gas chamber at the Nevada State Prison the same week, move into death row cells today.

Thomas Lee Bean, 18, and Lester Morford III, 19, have been sentenced to die the week of Sept. 22.

Asked about the chance of a double execution for the teen-age pair, Warden Jack Fogliani said an appeal by either youth could change that possibility.

Vandals Strike

Vandals poured dirt into fuel tanks and smashed gauges on the instrument board of a tractor parked in a rock quarry at the end of Irwin Street, San Rafael, over the weekend, Harry Robert Merz of 7 Archangel Court, Fairfax reported to police yesterday.

sor George Ludy of Inverness, "but my people definitely favor the plant. I have yet to find one that's against it. I would be crucified by my constituents if I went against the project."

Chairman William D. Fusselman said "I doubt if we are ever going to safeguard humanity," and said opposition to the nuclear plant on the ground that it is near the San Andreas earthquake fault had been duplicated by fears about the Golden Gate Bridge.

"If the bridge collapsed it would be like a child stubbing its toe by comparison with what might happen at Bodega Head," said Behr.

Supervisor William A. Gnos said "Sonoma County hasn't tried to tell us what to do about anything and I feel this is up to them."

Behr read a lengthy statement following the reading of two letters, one from Mae R. Leberman of Lagunitas asking the board to protest the plant and another from Frank C. Schickel of San Francisco asking legal safeguards against nuclear contamination of Marin milk.

PARLEY

Diplomatic sources said the Soviet and Western negotiators might also discuss the possibility of a Berlin settlement. They said this might be pegged to another Khrushchev proposal that Allied officials serve with Communist forces in East Germany while Soviet officials serve with Allied forces in West Germany.

A major snag to conclusion of an East-West non-aggression pact was a Western fear that it might entail recognition of Communist East Germany. Western diplomats feared such recognition might imperil Allied rights in West Berlin.

However, some diplomatic sources said that instead of a formal NATO-pact non-aggression treaty, the negotiators might propose a compromise under which each of the military alliances would issue a unilateral declaration opposing war.

Such a move, the sources said, could eliminate Western fears over implied East German recognition.

Car Battery Stolen

Theft of a 12-volt battery from a car parked in a carport at 175 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, was reported Sunday to police by William Stanley Goedel. Goedel said the battery was taken from his car sometime Saturday night.

Four Hurt As Car Rolls On Highway

A Mill Valley woman and her three children were injured about 12:10 p.m. yesterday when their small French sedan rolled over on Highway 101 on the Corte Madera Creek bridge.

Mrs. Rosemarie Louise Zepponi, 40, of 8 Dorset Lane, said she was southbound when a tan or beige car swerved from the right in front of her, causing her to turn sharply left, whereupon the little Renault flipped.

Mrs. Zepponi was admitted to Marin General Hospital with head cuts and multiple bruises. She was reported in good condition today.

Three children were treated: Cynthia, 11, for a cut right knee; Carla, 7, for right leg bruises, and Toni, 6, for bruises and scrapes.

The other car kept going, reported California Highway Patrolmen A. S. Olson and Donald Greer.

'Earthquake' Turns Out To Be Oak Tree

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Destin, 21 Madera, Ross, thought it was an earthquake. Their home shook and lights in the neighborhood blinked on at 12:45 a.m. today.

But there was no earthquake in Ross. When the Destin's went outside this morning they found that part of a large oak in the yard had split and fallen against the roof above the living room, causing minor damage.

Horse Barn Theft

A saddle and bridle valued at $85 were reported stolen Friday from a horse barn on the Dixon Ranch at San Geronimo Valley Drive and Railroad Avenue, Woodacre, by owner Russell Elmore of Forest Knolls.

STOCKS TODAY

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market closed mixed today after losing a fairly substantial gain. Trading was moderate.

The sale of a stock exchange seat for $160,000—a drop of $45,000 below the last previous price—had Wall Street buzzing. So did the formal endorsement of market reform proposals by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Many stocks cut big early gains, taking losses in some cases. Earlier, oils, motors and steels rose. Volume for the day was estimated at 3.5 million shares, compared with 3.69 million yesterday.

HEALTH

Recommendations by the Marin Mental Health Assn., the Mental Health Advisory Board appointed by the county board of supervisors in 1959, and others, that Marin County avail itself of state funds available through the Short-Doyle Act have been to no avail.

In June of 1961, the Marin Grand Jury called on the board of supervisors for a "planned mental health program."

The Grand Jury was alarmed—and properly so—by such statistics as these:

Marin commits 11 times as many persons to state institutions, per capita, as does San Mateo County, where excellent local facilities for mental health care exist, and four times as many patients are referred to state mental hospitals for 72-hour observation from Marin County as the average for the state as a whole.

Although there has been complete agreement that the need is there, it is not being met. The problem is indeed a serious one and cries out for solution. What is the best approach to take?

(Tomorrow, this series will discuss the advantages of outpatient treatment.)

Man Pleads Innocent To Attack Of Girl, 12

Donald Charles Watson, 37, of 117 Geary Avenue, Fairfax, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin County Superior Court to a charge of statutory rape of a 12-year-old Fairfax girl.

Judge N. Charles Brusatori set Oct. 1 for the jury trial. Watson was arrested June 7 by Fairfax police on a complaint by the girl's mother.

White, Negro Leaders Sign Pact On Cambridge Troubles

WASHINGTON — White and Negro leaders from Cambridge, Md., today signed an agreement that Negroes will end racial demonstrations there indefinitely and the white community will take concrete steps to meet Negroes' desegregation demands. (See also story, page 9.)

The document, designed to end violence in the eastern shore fishing community, was signed at the Justice Department. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy signed as a witness. It followed more than eight hours of talks Monday night with Asst. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall.

Inverness Telephones Are Cut Off

Inverness residents were isolated from the world for some 30 minutes and Marin-Sonoma County telephone communications interrupted this morning, when a main circuit cable of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. was cut at 8:45 a.m. by excavation equipment on Indian Valley Road, west of Novato.

The cable, which handles long distance calls from San Rafael to Petaluma, Santa Rosa, Point Reyes and Inverness, was cut on the property of Thomas Grodner of Novato.

About 223 of 248 pairs of wires contained in the cable were cut. Details of the actual accident were not available to the phone company, said Gordon Davenport, the telephone company's North Marin manager.

Phone communications were being restored in steps with complete facilities scheduled "about 6 p.m.," said Davenport.

All circuits to Inverness were cut, making only local calls possible for residents. A mobile telephone unit was dispatched about 9:15 a.m. to handle emergency long distance calls.

Mowbray and City Atty. C. Awdry Thompson arrived today to join Negro leaders in signing the agreement. Cambridge officials had not been represented at Monday night's meeting. Brig. Gen. George Gleston indicated that National Guard troops will remain in Cambridge for a while.

The four-page agreement listed these steps being taken in hopes of meeting Negro demands:

Firm assurances that desegregation of the first four grades in the Dorchester County school system will be accomplished by the opening of the school year in September.

A Negro citizen has been retained as an interviewer with the state's Department of Employment Security in its Cambridge office.

The mayor and commissioners of Cambridge are applying to the Federal Housing Administration for a low-rent public housing project "which materially will benefit the Negro community."

The agreement also noted that Cambridge officials have appointed a biracial Human Relations Commission with four Negro members.

In return, the agreement said, "the representatives of the Negro citizens of the city of Cambridge hereby agree that there will be no form of protests or demonstrations for an indefinite period hereafter."

Marin City Building Meeting Tomorrow

A joint meeting of the Marin City Community Services District board and Marin County Housing Authority commissioners will be held at 5 p.m. tomorrow at the housing authority office to discuss wrecking the old community building in Marin City and erecting a new one.

The meeting, tentatively set for last night, was not held because not all members could attend, according to John A. Thomson, community services district secretary.

Mrs. Howard's Mass Tomorrow

A Requiem Mass for Mrs. Jennette F. Howard, 61, of San Francisco, who died at a local hospital Sunday after a heart attack, will be offered at 9 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent De Paul Church in San Francisco.

Mrs. Howard was stricken while visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frank O'Connell, in Fairfax. She entered the hospital at 7:21 p.m. and died at 9 p.m.

Mrs. Howard, a secretary for the Navy at Oakland, was the widow of Edmond T. Howard.

A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., she had lived in San Anselmo until about 15 years ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. O'Connell and Mrs. Barbara Finn of Berlin, Germany, and five grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. at Carew and English, Masonic at Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno.

Harry Mack Is Given Probation

Harry J. Mack, former executive secretary of the Marin branch of the American Cancer Society, was placed on five-year probation with a 90-day jail term today.

Mack, who pleaded guilty three weeks ago to one count of grand theft, was arrested while serving as executive secretary of the San Mateo County Heart Assn. Investigators charged that he embezzled $4,930 from the association since he began the job last September.

Judge Frank W. Rose of San Mateo Superior Court today dismissed five other charges, including three of grand theft and two of forgery.

The terms of probation include the jail sentence, to begin tomorrow, and restitution of funds taken.

Mack worked five years for the Marin branch of the cancer society before resigning to take the San Mateo County post.

$40 In Coins Stolen

Longer School Session Due State Discussion

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A longer school day, week and year will be discussed when the State Board of Education meets in Sacramento Thursday and Friday.

school year, prompted by a public outcry for more use of expensive classrooms, will look into the possibility of the longer sessions.

It will be one of several committees beginning work on a master plan to improve California schools.

Other committees will look into:

Improving instruction in the Bill of Rights which the board said is too often taught by rote and not understood by students.

Denying high school diplomas to students who haven't learned to read and write correctly.

Providing better instruction in economics.

Modernizing vocational courses so graduates can hold jobs in automated industries.

GOP Governors Try For Civil Rights Action

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Republicans wheeled up their guns today for a probably futile new offensive to force some kind of civil rights action by the Democratic-dominated 55th annual Governors' Conference.

Governors of both parties planned two hours of talk at an afternoon session, under strict time limitations, to the issue. But there would be little opportunity for any effective action under the rules.

Repulsed in their initial efforts yesterday by an all-but-solid Democratic majority, GOP members led by Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon worked out strategy to inject the issue into an attack on President John F. Kennedy's welfare legislative program.

A committee headed by Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey lays before the conference tomorrow a report approving in glowing terms Kennedy's proposals for a domestic peace corps, a youth employment act, new mental health legislation and his highly controversial program of health care for the elderly, financed through Social Security.

Hatfield, committee vice chairman, is expected to counter this move with a minority report laced with civil rights declarations. It would take issue with some of the Democratic majority's views.

The Republicans believe they have a chance of forcing a conference showdown that would put divided Democrats in the embarrassing position of having to vote for the first time on a civil rights declaration.

A previous test, in which the Democrats rolled over the Republicans' opposition 33-16, abolished the conference resolutions committee. While civil rights proposals died along with others, it was not officially a ballot on the issue.

NASSER SHOWS OFF MILITARY MIGHT

But Plans For Extending UAR Seem All But Finished For The Present

CAIRO (UPI)—Egypt, displaying its military might on the 11th anniversary of the coup that put President Gamal Abdel Nasser in power, today announced it has built its first submarine and will test it within 15 days.

But Nasser's plans for extending the United Arab Republic appeared to be all but finished for the present. He charged in a speech last night that Syria, which was to have joined Egypt and Iraq in the new UAR by September, "has been converted into a vast concentration camp."

He said he would never federate with Syria as long as its Baathist Party rulers remain in power. He did not mention Iraq, also ruled by the Baathists.

Chief of Staff Gen. Ali Amer, reviewing today's parade of Soviet-equipped troops, declared that the armed forces were getting "up to date heavy equipment and guided missiles."

He did not say how the submarine was developed but German scientists have aided in the construction of missiles here.

(In Munich, Germany, the designer of the famous World War II fighter planes, Willy Messerschmitt confirmed yesterday that he is helping Egypt build a supersonic fighter.)

A two-stage rocket and possibly a space satellite were among the other achievements expected to be displayed today.

But the future of the enlarged UAR did not look good.

Nasser told a crowd of 100,000 jammed into Cairo's Al-Ghumaria Square that "Arab liberty, freedom, and dignity are suffering a crisis" in Syria, where Baathist President Louai Attassi and Premier Salah Bitar crushed a revolt last week and obliquely accused Nasser's propaganda organs of fomenting it. (Reports from Syria today said Bitar and Attassi may have to step down because more militant Baathists oppose the attempts they have made to federate with Egypt, even though they posed conditions Nasser apparently found unacceptable and fought Nasserites within Syria.)

When the Iraqi Baathists overthrew Premier Abdul Karim Kassem in February and Syria staged a similar coup a month later, both declared themselves in favor of unity with Egypt and talks were begun in April.

But the Baathists apparently sought more autonomy within the federation than Nasser thought it wise to grant and the talks broke down. Repeated attempts to revive them failed. The latest took place last week when Attassi flew to Egypt, but the revolt broke out in his absence and he returned home.

Nasser's speech appeared to rule out any hope of reconciliation. He called the Baathists in Syria "Fascists" and charged that they ruled by "tyranny, terrorism and bloodshed."

Nasser said the Baathists hope to divide the Middle East into zones of influence and do not want genuine Arab unity.

He said his government would keep a "wait and see" attitude toward the Arab federation but stressed: "I would refuse their proposal for unity if Syria was ruled by the Baathists."

Boat Owners

Numbers Needed

Boat owners whose craft do not have properly painted registration numbers will soon begin receiving red lettered courtesy tags telling how to make corrections.

Bowen Bridges Jr., sheriff's investigator in charge of the marine patrol, said today he has ordered the tags from the State Division of Small Craft Harbors, and that volunteer members of the marine reserve force will be posted at launching ramps on weekends and holidays.

He said that reserves will also walk through the boat harbors in the county checking on boats berthed there, and leaving tags on the boats.

Bridges said citations may be handed out if corrections are not made.

We Say That It's A Hell Of A Way To Run A Railroad

Back in the '80s a persistent reporter, questioning Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt about some skulduggery he was up to with the New York Central, infuriated the magnate by an innocent inquiry as to whether he was sure his maneuver was in the public interest.

"The public be damned!" roared the commodore. His words were to live after him. No doubt they did him an injustice. He spoke before he thought, as don't we all sometimes. But out of the mouths of babes, and of people in a rage, truth often comes.

Southern Pacific's latest effort to get out of restoring normal rail service to Marin County is no doubt legal, ethical, clean as a whistle and just what the lawyer (if not the doctor) ordered. Just the same it is an exasperating climax to a long series of evasive actions bearing strong resemblance to the cavortings of a well-greased pig.

It's just as well the ears of the S.P. high command are insulated from the hot breath of Marin County public opinion about most of what it has done regarding its Northwestern Pacific Railroad since the Puerto Suello fire and cave-in of two years ago last Saturday. Otherwise they might be singed by something in the Vanderbilt vein, but turned t'other way round.

As we recall, in this whole affair, there has been nothing but delay and obstructionism with almost total disregard for the welfare of Marin County.

This is a pattern all too familiar. Just as it seeks to abandon the tunnel and the service which it represents, so S.P. has sought to abandon its Sausalito branch—an unsuccessful effort, but it is impossible not to link the two and surmise that efforts to make the San Rafael blockage permanent are tied with possibility of another campaign about Sausalito.

Vanderbilt, at any rate, was dynamic in relation to his railroads. Today the general spirit seems to be one of defeatism. Passenger service certainly has become a competitive field and the rails found buses alongside while planes flew overhead, whereupon instead of rallying to fight with improved, more luxurious service, almost all wished to quit forthwith. Yet you'll have to reserve well ahead for the few remaining good passenger trains with such amenities as Vistadomes.

During the long Interstate Commerce Commission hearings which resulted in victory for Marin County, now disputed in the courts, strong evidence was brought forward to show the profit which restoration of tunnel and traffic could bring to both Northwestern Pacific and the people of Marin County.

Yet now the matter is dragged into court. This the law allows, and none may gainsay the law. Yet all circumstances considered it is certainly fair to lapse into Vanderbiltese for a headline summarizing Marin's view.

THE PAUSE THAT REFRESHES

On the occasion of her 80th birthday, Geraldine Farrar, retired opera star, declared that the world needs to pause for "spiritual insight."

In her birthday interview, the former Metropolitan and concert singer, who certainly experienced her share of the limelight through the years said: "It was my great pleasure to share with the world something with which I was endowed by the Creator. Now it is a thing of the past."

Miss Farrar also wisely commented: "So much is pressing in on humans today that no one has time to stand still long enough to evaluate it. They gulp life and taste nothing. They eat life and have no savor."

In a complex civilization, it is too easy for any one of us to become enmeshed in shallow, temporal affairs and to forget the real purpose for which we were created.

However few or many your gifts, use them while you can for those less fortunate than yourself.

"While you have the light, believe in the light, that you may become sons of light." (John 12:36)

Inspire me, O Christ, to employ my talents for the good of everybody and avoid needless regrets.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Airconditioned Modern Female Is Just A Softy On The Road

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Where are the pioneer women of yesterday? What has happened to the adventurous spirit that sent our foremothers trekking across the plains in covered wagons?

Nowadays you have trouble getting a woman to trek across the street in an air-conditioned station wagon. Especially if her children are trekking with her.

The reluctance of modern women to trek around in a car full of children is a cause for national concern.

I encounter trekking resistance each summer when we are planning our vacation. My wife will argue vehemently against any trip of more than five blocks.

AT TIMES she resorts to petty obstructionist tactics, like hiding my road maps.

I might mark this down as a case of individual eccentricity had I not heard so many other wives voice aversion to the open road. Apparently the problem is widespread.

If there were any real hardships involved, I could understand it. But everyone who watches television commer-icals knows that a family can travel in these times with ease and comfort.

I do everything possible to lighten the load for my wife. We divide our vacation preparations roughly as follows:

I lay out the route and she does the packing, takes the cat to the boarding kennel, stops the milk and paper, arranges to have the mail forwarded, finds someone to water the flowers, gets the car serviced, notifies the relatives that we will be dropping in on them, and floats a loan at the bank.

IT IS NO easy job to lay out a route, but I accept that chore as part of the fun of vacations. For some reason my wife doesn't seem to regard her assignments in the same spirit.

On the road I continue to accept most of the responsibility. I do the driving and she coordinates the bathroom stops, keeps the baby from grabbing the steering wheel, arbitrates disputes between the older children, keeps the baby from climbing out the window, watches for restaurants any motels, and keeps an eye out for the highway patrol.

Travel has a strange effect on her. For instance, she dislikes driving, but after 400 or 500 miles she practically begs to take the wheel.

In a short while, or as soon as I find out what she did with the car keys, we will be trekking across the plains on this year's vacation trip.

I reminded my wife that my great-grandmother crossed the plains with 100 head of cattle.

"Some people have all the luck," she said.

What Does Marin Need Most?

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

The Marin Visitors Bureau has offered to assist the Civic Center Committee in gathering information needed to complete their survey for the supervisors as to what should be started, or planned, next for the Civic Center: A Veterans memorial auditorium, an amphitheatre or a fair grounds. I am hoping you will help us by printing this letter.

We need information as to what is "needed most" in Marin County. First, what our own taxpayers need, and secondly, what is needed for the tourist. We have many, many needs for a meeting hall for our school graduation classes twice a year, our lodges, clubs, rodeos, boat shows, fairs, etc.

Will those people interested in helping the committee please write the Visitors Bureau giving name of group or organization and facilities needed? Also, their representative's name, should we need to contact them. Information should be mailed to Marin Visitors Bureau, P. O. Box 988, San Rafael. Please send information immediately, as we have a deadline of Aug. 10.

Marin County has many things to offer. Let's use nature's gifts to cut our tax problem. Unfortunately, Marineland was lost to Marin County because of poor publicity and due to the fact that insufficient information was circulated as to just what it had to offer or what it really was. We are at one end of the famous Golden Gate Bridge. We have Muir Woods, the longest coastline of any county in the state, only a few minutes from San Francisco, and above all, our climate.

So let's all help compile the information necessary to help the Supervisors to know what "Marin County needs most."

ESTHER M. DEARTH
President, Marin Visitors Bureau.

A Plug For Mill Valley

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

In view of the recent barrage from irate citizens about Marin County art, artists, and art festivals, I would like to add another point of view.

Southern Marin has one art show which is for the people, not just the artists. The name of this show? The Mill Valley Arts Festival. This October festival is organized by citizens of the Mill Valley area, not all of whom are artists.

Last year many favorable comments were made on the quality of the art and the fresh approach of the festival. The emphasis on the natural setting under the Redwoods in Old Mill Park was refreshing to all who attended.

Welcome Sign At Taylor Park

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

Thank you very much for your recent editorial about the woody fragrance of Taylor State Park. We like to think that many visitors enjoy the simple contentment and beauty of the park. This is one of our main reasons for the park. For the benefit of your readers that may not be familiar with all of our facilities and services, may I list them here.

Camping for families, first-come, first-served basis.

Camping for groups, reservations necessary.

Picnicking for families, first-come, first-served basis.

Picnicking for groups, reservations necessary.

Corrals and facilities for horsemen overnight.

Trails for horsemen and hikers.

Guided nature walks.

Evening campfire programs.

Sunday church services, outdoors, 7 p.m.

A creek to play in, and limited fishing.

Much history that can be viewed and studied.

We don't have any playground equipment, but we do have a large meadow area where visitors may play baseball or pitch horseshoes, etc. We keep such games and activities away from the quiet atmosphere of the picnic area.

The staff hopes that you will come again to enjoy yourself at Taylor State Park. We regret that occasionally we have to put out the "Full" sign. Possibly someday we may have room for all.

Yours truly,

Only Mermaids Could Improve Novato's Desert Islands

THIS IS the tale of two islands, or to be correct, two groups of islands.

One group is at Santa Rosa. It is in the residential area where Highway 101 goes through that city. It is a pleasure to drive by these islands in the middle of the highway. They are green and freshly watered. The grass is cut neatly and 'trimmed to perfection.

The other group of islands is in Novato. They have beautiful trees in the center of them. Here the similarity ends. Although they are in the heart of the business district, they are unweeded, full of weeds and debris.

The same government agency is responsible for both—the State Division of Highways. The same motorists drive by both, paying the same gasoline taxes for the upkeep of both. But the reaction of the drivers isn't the same.

We still can't understand why the visitor must get such a poor impression of Marin County and Novato from the islands in the center of Highway 101.

ONE MIGHT THINK that there is a surplus of churches in Novato. New ones are being built all over town. However, old churches do not command a sale to other churches. Why, we do not know. One would think that a smaller congregation would buy from another church which has moved to larger quarters, rather than build its own new building.

But the market in used churches seems to be different than that in used cars.

The Presbyterian Church was for sale for many months before the city of Novato purchased it to convert it into a civic center. By the way, Novato's civic center will be one of the best in the North Bay area when completed sometime next month.

Kennedy May Face A Fight In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two and a half years ago President Kennedy moved into the White House. In that time he has consistently followed a policy of trying to get along with Congress.

This is an exact duplicate of President Eisenhower's policy and the exact opposite of that of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman who tried to get along until they got mad.

In Kennedy's case trying to get along with a Congress run by his own Democrats has meant avoiding fights with members of the House and Senate even when they ignored his pleas and his programs.

THE RESULT has been less than all-out fighting, on his part, for what he asked. He has reserved his get-tough tactics for problems outside Congress, particularly when they meant domestic crises.

When the governors of Mississippi and Alabama defied federal court orders to let Negroes into their state universities, Kennedy used troops to back up the courts and brush the governors aside.

The Country Parson

"I doubt if a man ever finds out if he's given to profanity until he's hit in the face by the switching tail of the cow he's milking."

Last week, James Picchl bought the old Catholic church on Grant Avenue. He plans to convert it into a real estate office.

Anybody else have an old church for sale?

WITH THE increase in the cost of living in southern Marin County, many writers and artists have moved from Sausalito to Novato. In the past two years, artists have become more numerous and the Novato Art Guild has become a force in the art world. Now there is a Novato Writer's Workshop which is getting to be a meeting place of budding writers.

This past week, Juanita Musson of Galley fame came to visit Pearl Flores in the Patio Grill, which recently has started serving Mexican food in the evening. Juanita said it was a friendly visit, but we'd bet that her sharp eye looked the town over for business possibilities.

Now, all we need up here is Sally Stanford, or do we?

WHEN YOU read this, my wife and I will be miles from Marin County. By way of contrast, we have planned a leisurely trip across Tioga Pass, through southern Nevada, especially Tonopah for rock picking, to Cedar Breaks National Monument, Bryce and Zion National Parks in Utah, the north rim of the Grand Canyon in Arizona, Monument Valley and the Arches National Monument.

It will be strictly a scenery-viewing trip with no thought of time or schedule. It will be a combination of camping and staying in some of the park lodges. We both hope to come back refreshed and relaxed.

Maybe two weeks in the hot desert will make the trees of Marin County seem a shade greener and the ocean breezes (or winds as some people call them) a degree cooler.

And in the foreign field Kennedy got about as tough as a President can get, since defiance might have meant war, when he told Premier Khrushchev to get his missiles out of Cuba. Khrushchev melted.

BUT KENNEDY hasn't been that way with Congress.

He proposed medical care for the aged and made a total of one speech for it. The American Medical Assn. led the fight against it and Congress did nothing.

He asked for federal aid to public schools. Congress did nothing and Kennedy didn't try to knock any heads together.

He asked for a tax cut. Judging from the way Congress is going, that, too, may land in the ash bin.

In none of these three instances did Kennedy or Congress show signs of feeling pursued by a sense of urgency or danger or the unpredictable if nothing was done.

BUT IT is different now with Negroes' demands for equal treatment and Kennedy's proposal to Congress to pass a law to protect their civil rights.

Now Kennedy is confronted with a critical problem which may become a crisis.

Kennedy has shown—in his public speeches, his broadcast to the nation, his news conference remarks and his civil rights message to Congress—that he is aware of the militant mood of Negroes and its implicit dangers if frustrated.

But it isn't clear yet that Congress feels the same sense of urgency he now exhibits. There Kennedy faces from his own Southern Democrats and others the most intense opposition of his 30 months as President.

Talking may not be enough. He may have to do in-fighting.

Signs Of Optimism In Racial-Tense Cambridge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Solemn but hopeful Negro and white negotiators working in an atmosphere of new-found optimism resume talks today aimed at restoring peace to racially turbulent Cambridge, Md.

After more than eight hours of deliberations in the Justice Department last night there was a cautious note of hope in the brief statement of Asst. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall that "they feel they have made considerable progress."

Marshall's careful replies to questions left the impression an agreement might be in the air — one which will satisfy some of the Negroes' demands and ease the threat of violence hanging over the Eastern Shore fishing community.

The fact that negotiations were recessed until today stirred speculation that white leaders of Cambridge — not invited to the Washington meeting — were being briefed on the terms of an agreement.

Negro and white leaders of Cambridge and Dorchester County were invited to a meeting in Baltimore tomorrow by the Maryland State Bar Assn. Committee set up to try to mediate the racial dispute. The invitation was announced in Cambridge by the committee chairman, former Circuit Judge William J. McWilliams, after

While the department would not discuss the content of the talks, a hint came from the announcement that the Negroes had taken time out to visit Robert C. Weaver, the Negro administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. Equal housing has been a goal of the Cambridge Negroes, and government housing help might be part of a package acceptable to the Negroes in exchange for cooperation in holding off demonstrations. Schools and public accommodations are other friction spots.

Escaper Is Still At Large

Jesse James Gilbert, convicted murderer who escaped from San Quentin Prison's minimum security ranch Saturday, was still at large and leaving a cold trail today.

Law enforcement officers have no leads on his whereabouts, Associate Warden Dale B. Frady reported today.

Gilbert, a convict for most of his adult life, is considered dangerous and possibly armed with a knife.

He escaped over a nine-foot chain link fence after leaving a roll of blankets in his dormitory bed to simulate a body. He was serving a term of 1 to 15 years for second degree burglary in Los Angeles, and had previously been convicted for fatally stabbing a fellow inmate.

Supervisors Hear 19 Protests On Property

Marin County supervisors heard 19 more property appraisal protests yesterday in the fourth day of hearings as a board of equalization. Hearings will continue tomorrow at 9 a.m. in the Civic Center.

Among protests was a complaint by John R. Kiker, Novato resident who has asked for the recall of County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, that "all property in Novato is assessed too high."

Kiker said his own 12 acres were improperly appraised because all reappraisal of north Marin property was out of proportion.

The board took his protest under consideration along with 18 other specific complaints on assessments, mostly in the Novato area.

Protests filed as of the deadline July 15 totaled 86, compared to a total of 115 last year.

The board will hear nine protests tomorrow and will consider others which have been taken under advisement.

Dr. Alex Grinstein said first results of tests would not be known until late today. Cause of Magnuson's fever—reported between 101 and 104 over a three-day period—was not determined.

The physician said Magnuson, 58, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, would be hospitalized for the remainder of the week.

Sen. Magnuson Is Still Ailing

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Hospital tests on Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) continued today after the senator was admitted with a high fever last weekend.

Dr. Alex Grinstein said first results of tests would not be known until late today. Cause of Magnuson's fever—reported between 101 and 104 over a three-day period—was not determined.

The physician said Magnuson, 58, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, would be hospitalized for the remainder of the week.

Bay Area Governments Need More Revenue, Expert Says

BERKELEY (AP)—The 900 local governments in the San Francisco Bay area spent nearly one billion dollars in 1960 but they need methods of getting more revenue, Prof. Malcolm Davisson of the University of California said today.

He gave a synopsis of the seventh Franklin K. Lane report at a news conference.

Revenue requirements are outstripping the traditional sources of support, he said. "The basic problem facing local governments is lack of suitable revenue—raising machinery rather than lack of capacity. Resources are available . . . but the limited and inflexible methods of raising revenue . . . fail to reach these resources adequately and equitably."

Davisson suggested improving property tax administration, use of more rational methods of taxing business, more user charges against services for "identifiable individuals."

Pay Phone Is Ripped Off Side Of Building

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. told the sheriff's office yesterday someone with a crow bar had ripped a pay phone off the side of Building 64 in Marin City, then forced it open to get the change inside.

A piece of the wall was ripped loose with the phone. The telephone was later found behind Building 43.

als," voluntary or statewide minimization of unfair distribution of government burdens, greater use of such tax supplements as local sales or income taxes, and use of state and federal grants-in-aid with a minimum of federal or state control consistent with high standards of performance.

Davisson has served on the faculty of the university's department of economics at Berkeley since 1931 and was chairman from 1943 to 1952. He also has been a tax consultant for the state Senate and the League of California Cities.

No. 1 Best-seller in Marin (32,217 copies read nightly)

Readers alone make a best-seller. Readers alone make the Independent-Journal the most-sought, most-bought publication in Marin County—by far.

Two out of every three Marin families make the I-J their "personal" newspaper. In fact, readership is so widespread in the county that this has earned the I-J an unusual distinction:

It is today one of the very few daily newspapers in the U.S. with more circulation than the population of its "home", or publication city.

The explanation is simple enough: we report all Marin . . . the local events that have meaning for each town, each area, each family. That's our first responsibility to you as a citizen and as a subscriber.

But not our last. We bring world news on stage. We add the light of editorial interpretation . . . the perspectives of nationally known columnists. We add entertainment. And we experiment with new formats, new features and new ideas.

The secret then, of being the No. 1 best-seller in Marin, is in meeting your interests night after night, page after page.

But that's hardly a secret . . . when it's a fact.

No. 1 best-seller for advertisers, too

- Puts your message within the format of full readership.
- Puts you in direct contact with 2/3 of Marin's families.
- Gives you certified, paid circulation—not guesswork.

Petitions Ask Rural School Unionization

Petitions for unionization of seven Marin-Sonoma elementary school districts have been submitted to the Marin County superintendent of schools.

If the petitions are in order, county superintendents in Marin and Sonoma must call for an election, said Edwin L. Blackmore, Marin County coordinator of rural education.

Blackmore said today that if petitions are properly signed, he assumed an election would be called in about 60 days.

The petitions were initiated by school boards in several of the elementary districts, in part as a means to head off unification of Tomales High and the elementary districts within it or of any of the districts with another high school district.

Marin County districts which would be included in the unionization are West Marin, Point Reyes and Tomales Bay. Sonoma districts are Bodega Bay, Watson, Bloomfield and American Valley.

The seven-district combination would include all elementary districts now within the Tomales High School District.

Petitions asking for an election must be signed by a majority of registered voters who have children in schools. If an election is called, the unionization must be approved by a majority of all those voting in each district. Any district in which voters against the proposal would be excluded from unionization.

To be included districts must also be adjacent to each other. For instance, if West Marin district voters were to disapprove the scheme, Point Reyes district would automatically be excluded.

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—A taxicab rushing an expectant mother to a hospital collided with a bus yesterday.

Joshua James Purcell, 71, was treated at Novato Hospital for a cut on his face yesterday after falling at Fourth Street and Mirabella Avenue in Novato about 4:19 p.m. Purcell, who lives at the Brickner sanitarium at 821 Sweetzer Avenue, told police he stumbled accidentally.

Assessment Appeals Extension Is Refused

Extension of time for Marin County property owners to file assessment appeals was refused today by the state board of equalization.

Marin County supervisors had asked that they be allowed to consider applications filed after the third Monday in July. But the state said the supervisors' application came too late, hence it could not be allowed.

County Clerk George Gnos said three appeals came in after state deadline and had been accepted on a tentative basis only, subject to the state ruling.

British Honduras Granted Complete Rule At Home

LONDON (AP)—British has granted complete home rule to her Central American colony, British Honduras.

A new constitution, unanimously agreed at a conference which wound up yesterday, will take effect Jan. 1, 1964.

The talks between British Honduran leaders and British government officials led by Colonial Secretary Duncan Sandys had been going on for 12 days.

Conference delegates said the new arrangements will leave management of British Honduran external and defense matters under London's control.

Elections for a two-chamber legislature are expected to take place by the end of the year.

Petty Theft Trial Opens

Jury trial of two men charged with trying to take a cigarette machine from Zip's Drive-in in San Rafael opened yesterday and was expected to wind up today in Marin Municipal Court.

Yesterday Deputy Sheriff Raymond Tschirgi told how he arrested the pair, John T. Kilpatrick, 19, of 27 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, and Lawrence S. Norton, 21, San Francisco, a block from Zip's after seeing three men run from the area.

Defense attorney William O. Weissich, in an unusual move, gained permission from Judge Harold J. Haley to have the jury of five men and seven women walk around the block where Zip's is located.

Pair Bound Over In Perversion Case

A San Anselmo man and an airman from Hamilton Air Force Base were bound over to Superior Court on a sex perversion charge yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson after a two-day preliminary hearing. Arraignment was set for Monday.

Dick Dudley, 40, of 6 West Hillside Avenue, San Anselmo, was arrested June 18 by San Anselmo police, and A/1c James A. Griffin, 34, was picked up later that day at the air base. The two had been found in a parked car before dawn.

Boy Pleads Guilty In Burglary Case

Ladd Taylor Johnson, 18, of 299 Cascade Drive, Mill Valley, pleaded guilty in Marin County Superior Court yesterday to two counts of burglary. Judge N. Charles Brusatori set Aug. 12 for probation report and sentencing.

Johnson was arrested June 11 by sheriff's inspectors. His fingerprints were found at the scene of a burglary at Southern Marin Realty, 920 Redwood Highway, Alto, May 30.

The youth then admitted six Alto burglaries on April 14 and May 30, investigators said.

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP)—The federal supreme court today sentenced former West German intelligence official Heinz Felfe to 14 years imprisonment at hard labor after convicting him of having spied for the Soviet Union.

Firemen Halt Blaze —Arson Is Charged

Marin County firemen arrived just in time last night to halt a fire in a Lagunitas home which they claimed was deliberately set.

County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom said the fire in the basement "was just about ready to burn through the floor" of the home of Leon Grochowsky at 1 Spring Avenue.

A heavy wooden beam in the basement was charred. Bloom said burning wads of paper were found in bookshelves on both sides of the fireplace.

"I am satisfied it was definitely a case of arson," Bloom declared. Sheriff's officers were called in to investigate.

The fire was reported at 6:08 p.m. by Mrs. Catherine Blades, who lives next door to the two-story home. Firemen needed gas masks to enter the home.

Grochowsky, a San Rafael hair stylist, said he left the house about an hour before the fire broke out and returned at 3 a.m. "to find the house a mess."

He said he had burned some trash in the fireplace just before leaving but that it was smoldering when he left and a fire curtain had been drawn across the fireplace.

Damage was estimated at $500 to the house and $250 to the contents.

Flexible

That's us. We bend a little here and there. When it makes sense. We agree that banks should have "principles," and "regulations," and "guideposts" and that they should be "stalwart" and "forthright". But in addition, we believe that banks are dealing with people, and that people are different. And so are their problems. Your problem is the first of its kind we've ever seen. There've been some others like it, and by experience we've learned to note the similarities. But yours is a little different. Otherwise it's not a problem. And the answer to your problem may be a little different than some of the others, in order to be sure it's the best answer. That's the only thing we're inflexible about. Getting the best answer to every financial challenge in this county. And then following it through. That takes intelligence, experience, ability, and by the way, creativity. And it takes the willingness and the time to learn all sides of every financial situation. That's what we're selling at Redwood National Bank.

Terrifying—That's The Word For Sonny In The Ring

By TED SMITS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (P)—Everyone is agreed on one thing. Sonny Liston, the heavy-weight champion of the world, is a terrifying man.

He looks terrifying. He uses his fists like clubs. Right now there doesn't appear to be anyone around who could even test him.

Floyd Patterson, who was knocked out for the second time in the first round of a fight against Liston, looked terrified, almost old when he got up the third time just before the end last night.

Patterson denied that he was afraid.

"I was a little nervous," he said, but it wasn't convincing.

Even Cassius Clay went along with the horror act. When the brash young man who probably will fight Liston in Philadelphia in a match that could draw 50,000 entered the ring last night to be introduced, he first shook hands with Patterson, then looked across the ring at Liston and cringed in mock terror. He fled without greeting the champion.

Liston himself, big, unsmiling, his face grim and unmarked, did nothing to spread sweetness and light after the fight.

He was asked what he thought when the buzzer cleared the ring and the fight began.

"It's him and me."

It was a chilling thought.

There was only one surprise last night. Everyone had expected that if Patterson was promptly knocked out again he would retire from boxing, but he didn't.

"I feel I can make a better showing than I did tonight," said Patterson instead. "I want to prove it. I love boxing. If there was no money in it, I'd still be a fighter. Of course"—and he chuckled—"the money helps. But I feel terrible. I feel disgraced. I hoped I could go home like a champion. I still want to—so I'll try again."

The talk around the ring after the fight was all centered on Clay. A lot of people would pay good money in the almost dead certainty that Liston would knock him out. Sept. 30 has been discussed as the date.

But Liston was contemptuous.

"Who's Clay," he asked. "It would take me about a round and a half to catch him and a half round to knock him out." Liston summed up the fight this way. The punch that started the end "was a left hook to the head"—one of many hammering blows Liston landed on Patterson's head.

"I hit him harder in the other fight," he went on. "The last time he was coming in to me. This time he was fading away."

If Patterson is determined to go on with boxing there is some expert opinion that holds he should quit the game. Two former champions, Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano, think he should pack it in.

That's the way it stands. Liston by common consent scares everyone to death. Clay could draw an enormous crowd against Liston just because he talks too much but no one seriously thinks he has a chance. Patterson has now been convincingly beaten twice.

Looks Like A Runaway For Yanks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It looks like an old-fashioned Yankee runaway—perhaps the easiest since the Yankees romped by 12 games in 1947.

That's the picture in the American League today with the world champions 7½ games in front of the pack and just starting a long home stand where they almost always are at their best.

The Yankees made it four in a row on their current home stand when they whipped Los Angeles Angels, 8-4, last night and opened a 7½-game lead on the idle second-place Chicago White Sox. No other major league games were scheduled in either league.

Ralph Terry, the World Series hero of 1962, staggered the full nine innings on the strength of an early Yankee assault that produced a 7-0 lead after three innings.

Liston's Quick Knockout Fails To Button The Lip Of Cassius

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (P)—"This," announced lippy Cassius Clay, "was not a heavy-weight championship fight. It was just an elimination to see who's going to fight me."

Clay, the noisy, unbeaten contender from Louisville, made the remark after putting in an unexpected appearance at Sonny Liston's victory party last night, following the champion's one-round knockout of Floyd Patterson.

Clay said he showed up at the victory celebration "just to make him (Liston) mad."

He shouldered his way through the crowd to where Liston was sitting with some friends and told the massive champion: "You're just a sucker. My brother could have beaten Floyd Patterson."

Liston, in a rare burst of humor, invited:

"Come on over here and sit on my knee and finish your orange juice."

Some further words were exchanged and at one point Liston rose to his feet and assumed a mock fight pose. Friends moved between them.

Clay stole much of the thunder from the fight even before it started.

Clay stepped into the ring while the announcer was introducing famous boxers who were at ringside. The fistic poet waved to the crowd and shook hands with Patterson. Then he started for Liston with his hand out—but suddenly retreated in mock fear and

Pitchers Star As Little Leaguers Begin All-Star Tournament Play

Tremendous pitching marked first round play last night in the District Three (Marin County) Little League All-Star Tournament.

Two shutouts were recorded, with a no-hitter, a one-hitter and a two-hitter highlighting the five-game opening round.

Steve McNally of Gallinas Valley led in the best performance of the evening, and indeed the best of the entire season. He did not allow a fair ball to be hit as he tossed a no-hitter at San Geronimo and beat them 11-0. McNally struck out 17 in the six inning game, one less than the maximum, and he walked five. The other out recorded against San Geronimo came when one of the boys McNally had walked was picked off base.

Steve also got two of Gallinas Valley's 13 hits, as did Mike Scott, Dennis Taylor, Glen Thompson and Mel Camgros. One of McNally's hits was a home run.

Larry Hoffman of Twin Cities threw a one-hitter at the fumbling Mill Valley American Leaguers in his team's 6-1 victory. Mill Valley betrayed their pitcher, Ray Mackin, by contributing five errors to a five-run inning for Twin Cities. Ron Pederson had two hits for the winners.

The Mill Valley National League team rode into the second round on the two-hitter pitcher Kenny Fair tossed at Sausalito in a 3-0 victory. Robin Nelson broke a scoreless tie in the third inning when he double in a run, and Steve Lane doubled for the last two markers in the fourth.

Strawberry's Pete Senter had only one bad inning in his four-hit, 10-strikeout 5-3 triumph over Tiburon. Catcher Steve O'Brien started Strawberry on its way with a two-run single in the second inning.

Novato eliminated the San Rafael American League from contention with a 4-2 win. Bill Krueger pitched four innings of no-hit relief and got two hits for the winners.

Mike Snider started for San Rafael, but when he hit five batters in the first four innings, the umpires forced manager George Hasler to yank him. The score was tied at the time, 2-2, but Jim Morrow doubled in the two winning runs in the fifth inning off Snider's relief.

The three teams which drew first round byes—Hamilton Air Force Base, Marinwood and the San Rafael National League—will see action in tonight's second round. Tonight's schedule:

Gallinas Valley at HAFB; Novato vs. Marinwood at Gallinas Valley; Mill Valley NL at Strawberry; Twin Cities vs. San Rafael NL at Mill Valley.

money title fight with gabby Cassius Clay in September.

This giant of a man, at 215½ pounds 21 pounds heavier than the ex-champion, bombed Patterson to the deck three times en route to the knockout in two minutes 10 seconds.

Sonny, 30, missed the course record over Floyd by four seconds—two minutes six seconds at Chicago last September—but now has required 146 seconds to destroy Floyd, 28.

WON'T RETIRE

To the surprise of many, Patterson announced after the fight that he will not retire, that he wants to fight himself back into the title picture—and meet Liston a third time.

A crowd of 7,816 paid $286,180 to see the fast finish in the Convention Center, plus a nationwide audience viewing it through closed circuit.

Liston got the boos when he entered the ring, Patterson the cheers as the sympathetic underdog. Which prompted Sonny in his post fight remarks to say: "The public is not with me, I know, but they'll have to swing along until somebody comes to beat me."

Floyd said: "Yes, I feel that I disgraced myself. But I think I can do better and I hope to fight my way back and prove it."

Liston, pacing a step back and a step forward—even paced his way through the Star-Spangled Banner—was a picture of pent-up fury just before the bell.

The end was soon in sight. Sonny landed a straight jab, Patterson a mild left and then Floyd connected with the first of the only two good punches he landed, a left hook to the jaw.

Completely undisturbed, Sonny closed with a flurry to the head and body and Patterson was dumped to the canvas. He staggered up at the count of two but took the mandatory eight-count.

There was a short clinch and Patterson was dumped to the canvas. He staggered up at the count of two but took the mandatory eight-count.

There was a short clinch and Patterson brought a cheer from his supporters when he hit

Sonny with a right to the jaw.

Sonny didn't blink an eye, and presently Floyd was down again. He was up at four, again getting the benefit of the eight-count.

Then came the finish as Sonny closed in with punches again to the body, and a right and a left hook to the chin.

Floyd was flipped over flat on his back. He rolled over and struggled to one knee at eight. Referee Harry Krause continued the final two counts and the thing was over.

SEPTEMBER DATE

Liston's manager, Jack Nilon, and the Clay group of managers from Louisville, have been negotiating for a fight. A date of Sept. 30 at Philadelphia has been pinpointed for what doubtless will be a tremendous money attraction.

Liston has now won 28 straight fights and scored 25 knockouts in his 36 bouts. His only loss was back in 1954 in an eight-rounder when he lost a decision, and got a broken jaw, from an obscure man named Marty Marshall of Detroit.

Marichal Faces N.Y. Tonight As Giants Open Home Stand

The road back to the top looks rugged if not insurmountable for the San Francisco Giants as they open a nine-game home stand tonight after a disastrous road trip.

New York's Mets, occupying the National League cellar, furnish the opposition at Candlestick Park with Juan Marichal (15-5) hurling for the Giants and Roger Craig (2-16) for the visitors.

Winning only four of 13 games on the road, San Francisco sagged into a fourth place tie, 8½ games behind the pace setting Los Angeles Dodgers whom they beat in a playoff for last year's pennant.

Only Willie McCovey and Harvey Kuenn have been hitting consistently, fielding flaws have cropped up and on the road trip the pitching left much to be desired.

The 10-5 victory over Cincinnati and Jim O'Toole proved heartening as Alvin Dark's batters collected 16 hits including homers by Orlando Cepeda, Felipe Alou and Jimmy Davenport.

"If it weren't for the hitting of McCovey and Kuenn, we'd be 14 or 15 games out of it," Dark commented on his return to San Francisco. "Now it looks like some of these other fellows are starting to hit and that will make a difference."

"I think we can come back," said infielder Davenport. "Now that we're back home, we're going to start winning a few." Although the Giants have seven games remaining against their arch enemies, the Dodgers, the first one isn't until Aug. 29.

As a club, the Giants are currently hitting at only .246 and Willie Mays hasn't been able to shake his long slump and hits at only .274. He drove in only five runs during the 13 games on the road.

The Mets announced yesterday they are releasing controversial outfielder Jimmy Piersall.

A spokesman said waivers will be asked today for the purpose of giving him an unconditional release. The 33-year-old Piersall has hit only .194 in 40 games since being traded to the Mets by the Washington Senators.

FLOYD DOWN FOR THE THIRD TIME—AND THE FIGHT WAS ALL OVER

ship fight in Las Vegas, Nev., last night with titleholder Sonny Liston. Patterson had absorbed heavy punishment. At right, referee Harry Krause signals the end of the one-sided bout as an impassive Liston stands in a neutral corner and the defeated Patterson slowly gets to his feet. It marked the end of Floyd's hopes of regaining his heavyweight crown for a second time. And it set the stage for a Liston vs. Cassius Clay title bout in Philadelphia in September. (AP Wirephotos)

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

Minus Tides Saved The Fish— If There Were Fish To Be Saved

Another weekend has come and gone and another series of minus tides did a swell conservation job in the San Pablo Bay, the Carquinez Strait, the Napa River and the lower Suisun Bay.

As predicted, said subnormal tides saved untold thousands of fish (if that number were in the waters mentioned—which we doubt).

Also, as nearly always happens, the lower Bay water were generous to the many who drifted fresh and frozen anchovies in the Alcatraz sector; to those who fished for stripers in the same area with bouncing balls, and to at least one boat that featured bug-eye jigs.

Listening to the chit chat over my Halicafter Sunday, I learned that one skipper had 42 striped bass caught on frozen anchovies. Another skipper related his stunt of landing limits of stripers trolling bukkies. He netted 17 bass in a half hour of trolling.

AN EXCEPTIONAL catch of ling cod was made on one boat (I understood it was the Black Spirit, but I could be mistaken in the name). At any rate the boat was coming in with 15 limits of ling cod, and that should establish some kind of a record.

Another interesting item came over the "fishermen's band" of my Halicafter. A skipper of a salmon trolling boat brought aboard a few silver salmon—probably the first silvers to show up in this area. Regarding the overall picture of salmon fishing:

STEVENS

It can be classed as ranging from fair to good. Quite a number of the boats reported catches of 10 or more fish—one had 16 in the box and was still fishing when I sat down to my typewriter.

I gathered that while it was rather windy outside, it wasn't too rough to allow for fishing. From Lee Anderson's Bait and Tackle in Oakland, I learned that Saturday was very productive for the Cherokee, R.S.P., and Trade Winds. The first two boats landed seven limits to 14 pounds and the Trade Winds had 10 limits.

SOME BOATS worked the Southampton Shoals in the morning and the Alcatraz sector in the afternoon. Heavy hardware was used by the majority, but the Trade Winds drift fished the Alcatraz area with light weights.

The boat Sea Bee accounted for 25 salmon off Double Point on Saturday; the Privateer had an even three dozen, and the Sea Horse brought in 20 to 25 pounds.

Kids Learn A Lot At Old Pool Room U.

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—There's a boom on in this area in gleaming, new family center-type billiard parlors—and please don't call them pool rooms.

They're a far cry from the smoky, dimly lit pool rooms of our youth, and if they call this progress we're against it.

"Stay away from the pool room and don't go near those bumkins," was the stern admonition heard daily and just as often ignored in our neighborhood in the long ago.

We never could figure out why the older folk were so dead set against the teen-agers getting a higher education in these fascinating classrooms.

For one thing we discovered that you could learn arithmetic and geometric angles a lot faster by losing hard-earned dimes to a pool hustler than we could in school.

None of the kids who held club meetings in the neighborhood pool room ever failed in arithmetic.

Any guy who could figure out a Dutch book, and get enough scratch together to beat it has to rate as a mathematical genius in our book.

A Dutch book was an overloaded listing of the odds on a race. Instead of coming to 100 per cent it would come to say 90 or 95 per cent. By betting certain amounts of money on each horse in the race you had to make money. You had to be quick to spot these slight miscalculations and quicker even to get your money down to make these bets.

There were some teachers—and their pupils—of higher mathematics of Pool Room U. who used to make a living by watching odds boards for just these errors.

Few of the college kids we know have had the advantages of the mathematics school of Pool Room U. Which is too bad in one way because none of the ones we know can spell worth a darn, either.

Shrine Game Prep Stars Favor USC

For the second year in succession, the University of Southern California seems destined to inherit the lion's share of talent from the Shrine North-South Football Classic, which will be held on Thursday evening, Aug. 1, in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

The Trojans, defending national collegiate champions, plucked off eight top prospects from last year's combined North and South teams. This summer, six players have positively named USC as their college choice and four others are either undecided or plan to enroll at Troy via junior college.

Utah State and Stanford could land as many players as USC, for that matter. Four North gridders have expressed a definite preference for Utah State and three more are not certain; six prize prospects, three each from North and South, have declared Stanford as their choice.

STANFORD-BOUND
Quarterback Jim Troppmann of Redwood High eventually plans to attend Stanford, but next fall will enroll at Menlo Junior College for preparatory work.

California is reasonably sure of bagging three of this year's Shrine players and two more are still weighing final decisions. UCLA has four "certain" enrollees, two each from North and South, and Colorado has three pretty well sewed up and a fourth who is uncommitted.

Southern California "Player of the Year" Steve Grady, halfback from Loyola (L.A.) High; Northern California "Lineman of the Year" Bud Baccitich, guard from St. Ignace (S.F.); Harry Wells, two-time All-City tackle from Manual Arts (L.A.); and Ty Salness, All-Southern California end from Anaheim, are USC's prize nuggets.

In addition, the Trojans will land Bill Homik, All-Southern California tackle from San Diego, and Ray Cahill, All-City end-halfback from Manual Arts (L.A.).

ALL LINEMEN
UCLA is getting all linemen—center Eric Taylor, Santa Cruz, and guard Pete Campbell, Bishop Armstrong of Sacramento, from the North; end Gary Bickers, Hawthorne, and guard Rich Deakers, Loyola (L.A.), South.

Stanford is expected to wind up with South guard Larry Volmert, Bishop Amat (La Puente); halfback Bob Blunt, Escondido; and fullback Bill Osterander, San Gabriel, plus North end Al Wilburn, Madera; guard John Longinotti, Willow Glen (San Jose); and fullback Mike Hibler, St. Francis (Mountain View).

Softball Team Needs A Sponsor

A softball team composed of young men in the Kentfield area is all set to enter the San Rafael Softball League this summer with one exception: They have no sponsor.

Rick Moyer and Cary Peck, the organizers of the team, estimate $100 can carry the team through the season. If any merchant or organization would like to help the team, the players would be grateful. Moyer can be contacted at 925 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, for further information.

Money Bags Nicklaus Has Dreams Of The Grand Slam

By OSCAR FRALEY

DALLAS (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus looked forward today to two more years of "making hay while you can" before easing up to take a solid shot at golf's grand slam.

The blond belter from Columbus, Ohio, already has made a ton of hay this year with his victory in the PGA championship, boosting his earning to $75,140. Which, for a feller who is only 23, can't be classed as being impoverished or one with a dull future.

That victory, plus previous wins in the Masters and U.S. Open, joined him with Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen as the only men ever to win all three of those events during their career.

But the slam, meaning those three and the British Open all in one year, still is his big dream.

"I have to play 25 tournaments for four years to become a PGA member," said the man who is only the champion of that same outfit. "That means I've got two more years to go before I can drop down to 15 or 20 tournaments a year and give myself time to rest properly for the big four."

Meanwhile, he'll try for all four in one year, of course. But the "hay making" comes first at this stage and just to give you an idea of what kind of a scythe he's swinging here's his itinerary the rest of the year:

The Western Open, two weeks of exhibitions with Gary Player in which they'll play eight times in 10 days; Hartford, Akron's American Golf Classic, a two-day $50,000 medal play tournament against Player and Palmer in Chicago, the "World Series of Golf" at Akron, Seattle, Portland, an exhibition in Japan, Whitehorse, the Ryder Cup matches, the Cincinnati Pro-Am, Sahara Invitation at Las Vegas, the Canada Cup in Paris, the Australian Open and World Classic and, in November, the Lafayette Open.

"After that," he said, "I may take four or five weeks off before the Los Angeles Open."

Considering that World Series alone, in which he'll play U.S. Open champion Julius Boros, British Open champion Bob Charles and, because of his own duplication in the Masters-PGA parlay, the winner of a playoff among tie losers Jacky Cupit, Arnold Palmer and Phil Rogers for the fourth spot. The winner there gets $50,000, which, incidentally, Jack picked up last year in the inaugural of this television spectacular.

It's obvious that young Jack isn't going to have any serious monetary problems within the next few months. But, aside from his grand slam ambition, he has another unfulfilled desire. Nicklaus needs to finish two quarters to obtain his degree from Ohio State University.

Jack tried to go back to college on a part-time basis but the director of admissions ruled against it.

Opposition To Budget Collapses

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Its big fight over, the legislature moved today to settle on final terms for Gov. Edmund G. Brown's supplemental budget and go home.

The way was opened yesterday with collapse of the Senate Republican holdout against the Democratic administration's fiscal program.

The 84-million-dollar pending bill, blocked for a week for lack of the required 27 votes, whizzed through the upper house, 34-6, without a word of debate.

Ironically, majority Democrats mustered their full 27 members for the first time during the special session and none of the seven Republican votes were needed.

Assembly leaders said they expect to bring the 84 million dollar total somewhat closer to the 114 million asked by Brown to augment his $3.14 billion "austerity" budget.

"We're not going to accept blindly the Senate package," said Chairman Robert W. Crown (D, Alameda) of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee. Speaker Jesse M. Unruh (D-Los Angeles) agreed.

For one thing, Crown said he'll urge an increase in the Senate's 6-million-dollar allowance for state pay raises. Brown had recommended 30 million dollars. The Senate version would provide funds only for the lowest categories.

Brown, in a statement, urged Assembly Republicans to "vote their conscience" as Senate Republicans finally decided to do.

House Republicans, with the votes to barricade the budget, indicated they'd wait and see how the Ways and Means Committee revises the Senate bill.

But GOP Caucus Chairman Don Mulford (R-Piedmont) told newsmen that if the Democrats revive the defeated income tax withholding proposal, "you won't see a budget on this side."

Democrats control the Assembly, 52-28, or just two short of the 54 votes required to send the appropriation bill to the governor.

The legislature last week assured Brown that he'll get all 147 million dollars in additional revenue this year that he requested. He planned to sign the bills today on his return from the national governor's conference in Miami.

In addition to the budget issue, a two-house dispute over additional money for public schools appeared inevitable.

Senate President pro tem Hugh M. Burns (D-Fresno) was optimistic enough over prospects for a settlement that he put in a resolution to adjourn the session, now in its 16th day, tomorrow.

The Senate gave 36-3 approval Monday to a bill by Sen. Joseph A. Rattigan (D-Santa Rosa) to increase state aid for schools by 100 million dollars — $40 million dollars this year, 60 million dollars next.

The measure was stripped of what Brown has termed an essential provision — a county-wide school tax designed to equalize funds between rich and poor districts.

Assemblyman Gordon H. Winton, Jr. (D-Merced) said he'll propose to restore the tax in the Assembly. If that fails, he said he'll propose eliminating the 60 million dollars in second year aid and try all over again at the 1964 budget session.

The Senate's budget fight was actually over even before the 13-man Republican bloc held a caucus and decided to end their blockade.

Two ailing Democrats — George Miller, Jr., of Martinez and Samuel R. Geddes of Napa — showed up to provide the 27 votes. Miller, accompanied by his wife, came here in a Highway Patrol car from his home where he's been laid up with a heart attack.

The six Republicans who held out to the end protested the passage of legislation to accelerate bank and corporation franchise taxes as part of the governor's no-new-tax plan for raising new revenue.

But Senate Minority Leader John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) who voted for the budget bill, credited the Republicans with defeating the withholding tax.

"This victory alone makes our work throughout this session worthwhile," he said.

The six Republicans who voted no on the budget were: Leo M. Backstrand of Riverside, Clark Bradley of San Jose, John A. Murdy, Jr., of Santa Ana; Stan Pittman of Oroville; Jack Schrade of Del Mar, and William Symons, Jr. (R-Hamilton Valley).

Anti-Segregation Measure Is Signed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — School districts with a "de facto" segregation problem may soon be able to seek advice from a state commission on how to reduce or end it.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown's office announced yesterday he has signed a bill authorizing the State Board of Education to appoint such a commission if the state superintendent recommends it.

The measure, by Sen. Albert S. Rodda (D-Sacramento) is effective immediately. It appropriates $25,000 to support the commission.

"De facto" segregation results from gerrymandering attendance boundaries so some schools have mostly one race. Brown also signed these bills:

Teachers — Creates a Teachers Professional Standards Commission to advise the State Board of Education on licensing of teachers.

Pheasants — Removes the six-bird daily bag limit for hunting on pheasant clubs in Zone B.

Parks — Appropriates $100,000 to the Department of Parks and Recreation for buying wayside parks along the proposed Westside Freeway in the San Joaquin Valley.

Blind — Creates a Department of Rehabilitation in the Health and Welfare Agency to take over programs for the blind, deaf, handicapped and aging, now distributed among various agencies.

Oleo — Lets restaurants serve oleomargarine in place of butter to customers who request it, provided a sign to that effect is posted and the margarine is served in triangular patties stamped "oleomargarine" or "margarine."

Crime — Establishes joint legislative committee to revise the Penal Code, to report by Feb. 1, 1967.

Anti-Castro Units Move For Invasion

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — New exile thrusts against Fidel Castro appeared in the making today as invasion veterans and commandos prepared to move to Central American bases.

The development came as the U. S. government remained adamant in its stand barring assaults from American territory.

Dr. Manuel Artime was reported in Nicaragua, jumping off place for the disastrous 1961 Cuba invasion which he led. He was reported conferring with Nicaraguan President Rene Schick and ex-President Luis Somoza, both outspoken foes of Fidel Castro.

Artime, secretary-general of Revolutionary Recovery Movement, one of the largest anti-Castro groups here, said before his Miami departure, "We are leaving the United States to establish a base in Central America."

"In much less than one year we'll be fighting inside Cuba," added the 34-year-old physician-revolutionary who once fought the Fulgencio Batista regime alongside Castro.

Currently training with the U. S. Army in Fort Benning, Ga., and expected back in Miami soon are Jose and Roberto San Roman and Erneido Oliva, military commanders of the Bay of Pigs invasion. There are persistent reports among exile leaders that they will join the Artime movement.

Blind Teacher Saves Daughter From Pool

SAN GABRIEL (UPD) — William Schmidt, 29, is blind, but it hasn't kept him from teaching school and leading an active family life.

And it hasn't kept him from getting around his house and swimming pool pretty well, which is why his 3-year-old daughter, Peggy, is alive today.

Schmidt said he had taken his 9-month-old son, Mark, upstairs yesterday when he heard his wife outside tell a neighbor that Peggy also was in the house.

"I knew she wasn't with me, so I set Mark on the floor and ran down the stairs to the pool," he said.

When he got there his wife, Meta, a poor swimmer, was in the water and so was Peggy—drowning. Schmidt, guided by instructions from his wife, plunged in and began groping in the water.

"When I started down the second time, I said to myself, 'Oh no, we're running out of time,' then, at the deep end of the pool, I felt her legs," he said.

Schmidt pulled his unconscious daughter from the pool and applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

"It seemed a long time," he said, "but suddenly she began to cry, and I knew she was all right."

CREATIVE THINKING'S VOICE

Promoting Harmony In World Full Time Job For Marinite

By BARBARA HOSMER

"... Every man, woman and child is a valuable contributor to conditions of the world, contributing for either good or ill."

In these complicated times when an individual may feel helplessly caught in institutional policies and assorted layers of groupthink, this may seem a startling statement.

But it is with this premise that Fairfax resident Muriel Hively Alstrom—the Voice of Creative Thinking—finds the inspiration she needs for the full time job of study, meditation, writing, teaching, counseling, lecturing, broadcasting, transcribing and living a philosophy.

AS FOUNDER and director of the non-profit organization called Creative Thinking she has set herself these tasks.

"But Creative Thinking cannot be defined as an organization or a teaching," she cautions, "rather it is a way of life."

The promotion of understanding and harmony among people is the heart of its broad philosophy.

Broadcasts by the reasonable, resonant "Voice of Creative Thinking" can be heard each Sunday morning, 15 minute segments in which Muriel Alstrom discusses problems of today's world and what an individual may do to bring greater understanding and harmony into his daily life which will help him become useful in extending these ideas in a wider realm.

As she explains Creative Thinking:

"ITS GREATEST PRESENT value lies in helping to meet the pressing demands of today in both a personal and collective way... Its philosophy will give our younger generations mental and spiritual balance. As leaders of the future they will be free of the particular type of bondages and prejudices which have slowed down human progress in the past..."

Muriel Alstrom began her broadcasts in 1959 when a young radio station salesman then working for KROW (now KABL) became so interested in what he read about Creative Thinking that he stimulated the idea of a broadcast called "The Voice of Creative Thinking."

Since her first KROW start, Mrs. Alstrom has broadcast on KFRC and is currently on KSAY each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. The young man, Jack Brown, who helped originate the program is the announcer for these broadcasts.

MURIEL IS OFTEN helped by another Marinite, Mrs. S. V.

Glazunov of Greenbrae. Sandra Glazunov also heads the programming activities of "Adventures in Understanding" which is the group's present project of greatest importance, Mrs. Alstrom says.

The basis of this program is the promotion of world understanding through understanding among the various groups of persons in the Bay Area from different cultural backgrounds. To this end the program involves films, music and lectures on the customs and beliefs of such peoples as the Chinese, Indians, Japanese, Africans, Greeks and others whose cultures are represented in the cosmopolitan Bay Area. The programs are given by authorities and artists of different nations, which may include consular representatives of the countries being highlighted.

Mrs. Alstrom explains that these programs are set up with a consciousness of present world conditions and with an effort to draw in all peoples of the world including those whose culture is still in the far distant past. "The time for understanding is right now," she says.

IN PRIVATE LIFE Mrs. A. J. Alstrom, Muriel enjoys her home and garden in the Cascade section of Fairfax, where the Alstroms moved when their children were teen-agers. They are Dale, who is a professional musician and teacher in the Orinda public schools system, and Karin, who is an artist and a busy mother. She is the wife of former Marinite, Don Urquhart and they now live in Southern California with their family of six children. Dale and his wife, Rajean, live in San Anselmo with their small daughter, Stephanie.

How did this Marin housewife and mother of a grown son and daughter become moved to attempt to put her philosophy into action in such a specific way?

Muriel explains:

"HOW DOES AN idea begin? I think it is rather like a seed that was dropped, unnoticed, into the soil of the mind. The seed was formed in earliest childhood out of an inner necessity to express joy and help everyone else to be happy..."

"The basis of the need was a deep love and reverence for all beauty and goodness."

Mrs. Alstrom, who was born in Riverside, found as a young girl growing up in the San Joaquin Valley an intense interest in many things but her greatest interest has always been in people. After graduation from high school she spent a year in Europe with an older brother during which she studied singing and dancing and she traveled.

HER WORK TODAY reflects her background in the arts and her interest in philosophy, new discoveries of the mind and spirit, and her growing interest in the new era of outer space exploration.

All of these interests are brought to light through her Creative Thinking programs.

"For me," she says, "Creative Thinking is a full time job, involving much more than the regular hours of a day." Mrs. Alstrom is the first to

Gaiter Outfits On Paris Scene

PARIS (UPI)—Knee-high gaiters and fuzzy, Moroccan-style hooded capes were the curtain raisers at the opening of the Paris fall-winter fashion shows.

Designer Jacques Esterel, who plays a guitar and writes songs on the side, went all out for fresh ideas in a "Harem Look" collection that college girls might go for.

Esterel virtually eliminated coats. His attitude was, who needs one?

Instead, his models paraded capes or knee-length spats, with thick wool "Walking Suits" that wrapped them from top to toe against next winter's cold.

HIS CAPES — and you can bet the copies will flood the land before the first day of school rolls around—were cut so that they could rest on the shoulders or atop the head.

The hood and cap were in one piece, as a Moroccan peasant's "Djellabah." Esterel made them in curly mohairs in such eye-stopping colors as turquoise as well as a black and gray.

One leaf green cape lined with white wool was worn either over the head or draped on the shoulders over a green straight sheath dress. One New York buyer noted that since college girls like anything they can wrap around their head this Esterel idea seemed a best-seller.

HIS GAITER outfits brought just as many approving looks from the fashion press and buyers. One model wore a heavy camel's hair slim walking suit, the jacket two-thirds length and cut in shirtmaker style that you slip over your head.

The casual collar was open at the neck. On her legs were brown leather gaiters, buttoned up to the knee like grandma's and worn with high heel brown pumps.

MANY FULL-LENGTH capes swooped to a "V" in the back and had fronts like short little lapeled jackets.

An orange-and-black tweed walking suit, with the same long over-the-head jacket, was shown with black gaiters and a wild black patent leather hat like an inverted coal bucket.

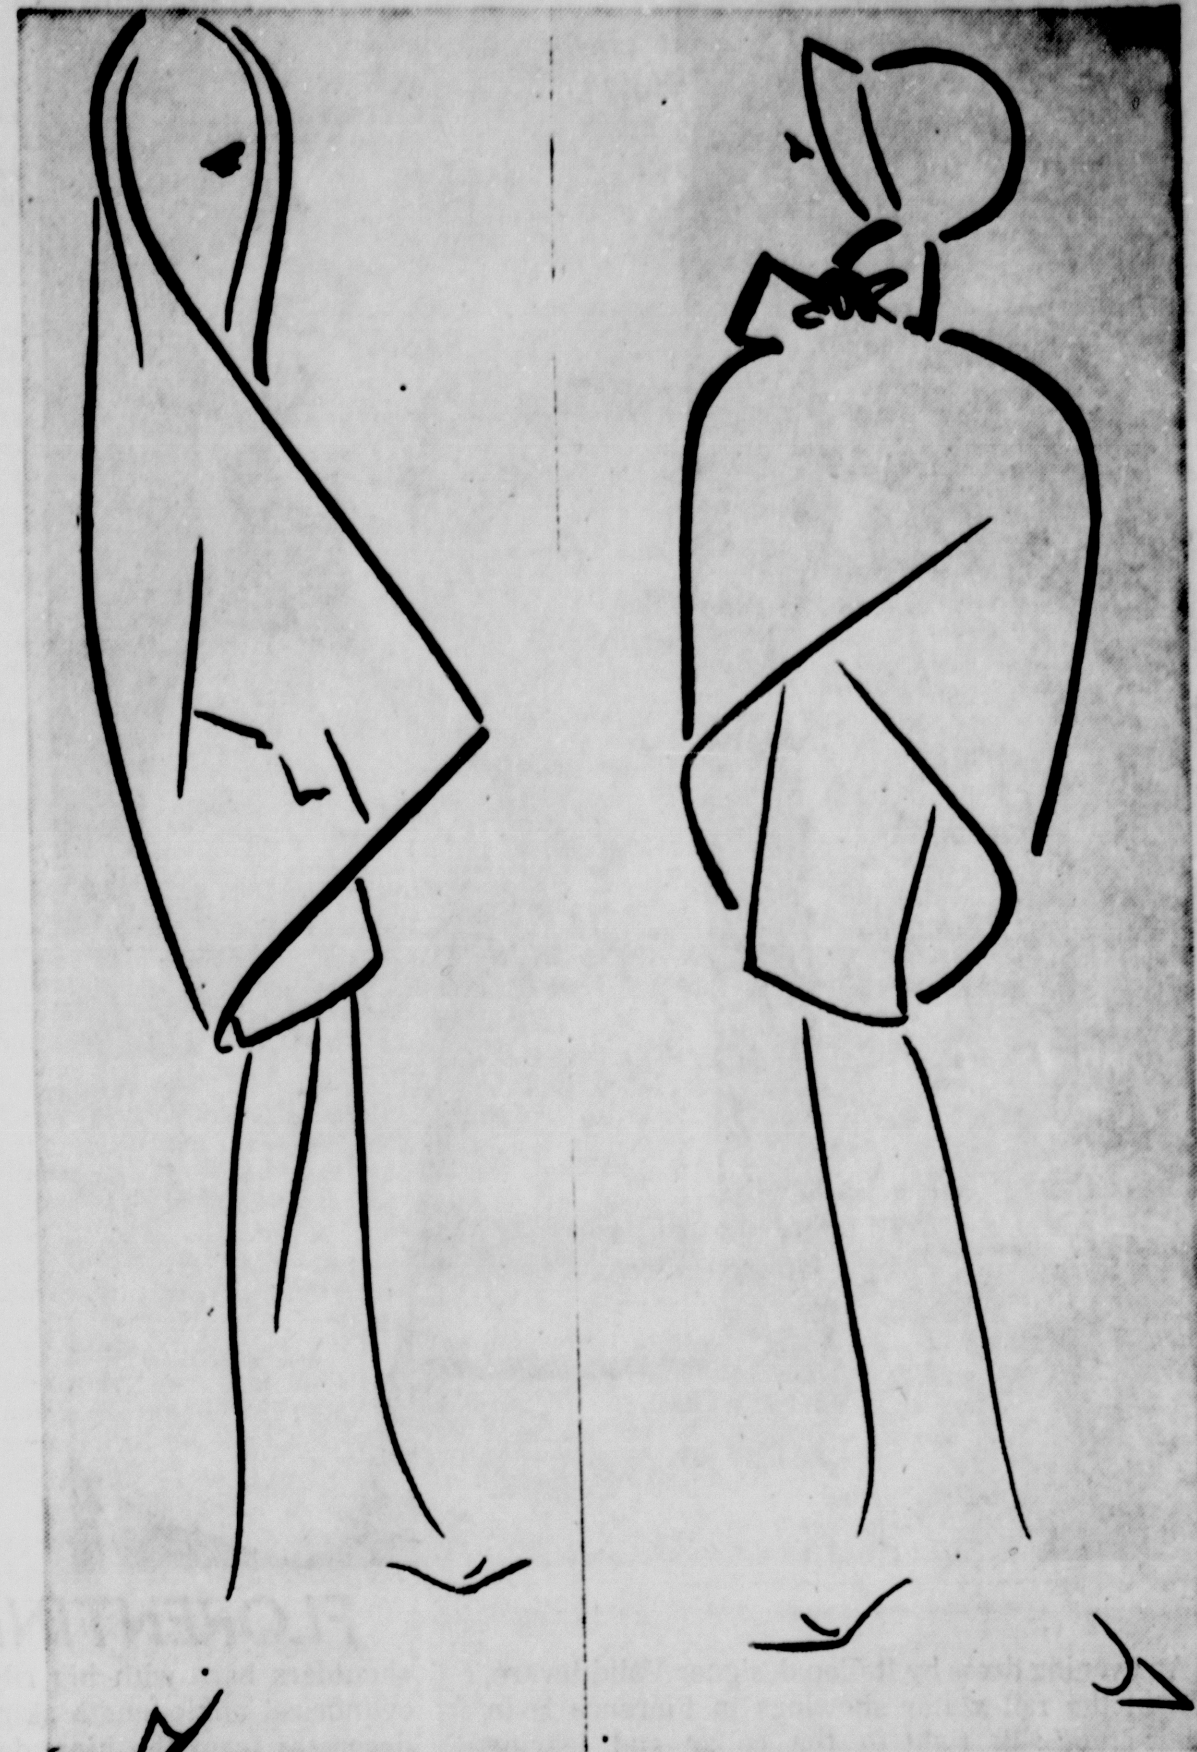

Another of these suits with the new extra-long jacket was of ocelot fur and buttoned up the back.

OTHER SUITS had short belted jackets and detachable hoods.

Esterel kept his skirts just covering the knee, his shoulders dropped but not padded or widened and sleeves narrow.

The only two daytime coats in the show were shown over matching wool dresses. His brocaded and satin evening coats often had big pointed collars and rope belts cinched high for an empire effect.

HIS AFTERNOON dresses had long narrow sleeves and usually were loose in the waist with narrow skirts. Cocktail dresses had back fullness above the waist and some semi-bare V-cut backs. For evening his "Harem Look" continued with bejeweled chiffon hoods attached to tiny pillbox hats.

PARIS—Sketchy previews from the new fall 1963 collection by Paris couturier Jacques Esterel, note the designer's tendency to wrap-up the woman warmly. These two designs show the soft wrap-up with a hooded coat, left, and a cape-like coat which dips at back and climbs in front. (UPI photo)

Creative Thinking's latest ventures is a series of lecture programs in San Rafael "designed to help the women of Marin to understand their place in bringing about peace," says Mrs. Alstrom. The programs are given Thursday at 1 p.m. in the Religious Science bldg. on Fifth Avenue. Three more programs are scheduled.

The other classes are given Monday evenings in the Marines Memorial building, San Francisco. Once a month the Adventures in Understanding programs are given in the Crystal Ballroom, Marines Memorial building, 609 Sutter Street. PATIO PARTY TIP:

Arrange Posies In Watermelon

Planning an informal patio party for adults, teen-agers or "small fry" during a warm summer weekend afternoon or evening?

Here's how you can surprise and delight your guests with something new and different in floral decorations, refreshments and "snacks": make things easy for yourself so you can join in the fun, and win compliments from "all hands".

Get a watermelon or two (depending upon the number of invited guests), about two dozen or so mixed summer flowers and one of the popular carbonated beverages or other drinks appropriate for your guests' age group, and follow these suggestions offered by the Society of American Florists:

1) FOR AN eye-popping floral centerpiece, cut the bottom third from a watermelon, held upright, and use it as a flower container. Slice off the rounded end so the watermelon will sit upright. Insert diagonally-cut flower stem ends into the red "meat"—to within an inch of the rind—all the way around. Place a few longer stem flowers vertically in the center; others of varying shorter length at slight angles, around the center blooms. The melon's juice provides all the moisture the flowers need.

2) FOR A THIRST quencher, carefully remove—and save—the red "meat" from the remaining watermelon end. Cut off the rounded end so the hollowed-out melon will sit upright. Fill it with cracked ice and suitable beverage which, mixed with the melon juice, will make a delightfully refreshing drink. The beverage can be served by ladle or withdrawn by straws.

3) FOR "COOL" appetizing "tidbits," cut the melon red "meat" into small rectangular blocks, insert small wooden sticks as handles, and serve as "watermelon-sicles" to teen-agers or "small fry." For adults, cut the "meat" into smaller portions—ball, star or other shapes. These "cool hors d'oeuvres" may be speared with toothpicks.

FOR YOUR FLORAL arrangement use a variety of brilliant summer flowers—pink, red and white carnations, yellow and white pompons, and daisies, for example.

Aitkens Back From Year Abroad With Tales Warmth, Adventure

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Home in Mill Valley after almost a year in Europe are Mr. and Mrs. Adren Aitken. Mr. Aitken retired last year after 30 years of teaching physics, mathematics and architectural drawing at Tamalpais High School, and he and his wife left by jet on Aug. 16 for New York.

THEY WENT immediately to Oslo, Norway, to realize a life-time dream of Mr. Aitken's—to visit Onsoy, the home of his grandmother, who had come to the United States in 1854. Many months of correspondence and searching of records preceded the visit, for there had been no contact between the families in this country with relatives in Norway for over 109 years.

When they finally arrived in Onsoy, Mrs. Aitken said, they were officially greeted like royalty by the mayor and relatives gathered at the town administration center and then feted at banquets. They were much impressed with the people, she said, who seemed anxious to tell them about their part in World War II and how much they loved America.

AFTER STOPPING at Copenhagen the Aitkens proceeded to their main destination, Coblenz, Germany, which they made their headquarters because their son has been stationed there for two years. He is Maj. Lowell Aitken, liaison officer between the U. S. Seventh Army and the Third German Army Corps in Coblenz, administrative headquarters of the German Army.

"It has been known as 'Little Paris' ever since the French Revolution," Mrs. Aitken said. "It was 85 per cent destroyed by the Allied bombs, but one is not really conscious of the great damage until one sees the town in early spring just as the snow melts and before the flowers and grass cover the debris and ruins. Our hearts were deeply saddened."

"THE MOST beautiful feature of Coblenz is the Rhine Promenade," she went on, "which is really a lovely garden sloping to the Rhine. Our son's dwelling was in this garden. From the living room we could watch the constant stream of boats with their colorful flags signaling their intentions."

Highlight of their experiences in Coblenz was attending the wedding of their son last May when he married Karen Volkert, a professional ballroom dancing instructor who instructs and prepares participants in Europe's famous ballroom contests.

THE WEDDING took place in St. Castor's cathedral. The couple received personal congratulations from Chancellor Adenauer.

Though their headquarters were in Coblenz, the Aitkens were constantly traveling. "We were impressed with the artistic splendor of the House of Lords in contrast to the unembellished House of Commons," Mrs. Aitken commented.

mented. "And Westminster Abbey with all its historical significance seems a musty, dismal place. I should think Shakespeare and Byron would rejoice in their slumbers that they were spared this morbid place."

A HAPPIER association with Shakespeare for the Aitkens was getting to see his play "Cymbeline" in the memorial theater at Stratford-on-Avon. "It was so beautifully and understandably done," Mrs. Aitken exclaimed.

In Spain they saw another of their most impressive sights. "We travelled 50 miles north of Madrid to visit the national monument of Santa Cruz del Valle de Los Caidos (valley of the fallen). It consists of a great church dug out of the mountainside with a great cross surmounting it. It is very modern and truly inspiring."

AFTER VISITING Fatima and Lisbon in Portugal the Aitkens went to Tangiers and took a 100-mile trip into the interior to a Moorish village, learning later that it had been dangerous.

They had intended to go into Berlin before coming home but decided they couldn't face the competition for flight and hotel reservations while President Kennedy was there.

"Television provided a satisfying substitute as we watched President Kennedy's thunderous welcome everywhere he went," Mrs. Aitken said.

She concluded, "Opera, fountains, market squares and rivers were my pet interests, while my husband said he'd write a book about 'Beds I've Slept In.'"

Dad's Participation Important For Child

By DAVID NYDICK UPI Education Specialist

Much advice concerned with helping children is aimed at the mother, but the father's interest and participation in a children's growth is particularly important.

A father's involvement in child rearing most often is affected by his occupation. His working hours, need for travel and type of position are all factors controlling his availability.

These situations should not relieve him of responsibility or limit the value of his participation.

IT IS DIFFICULT sometimes for a father to come home after a busy day and exhibit a pleasant, relaxed attitude toward an active child. It is important that it be done. A plan probably can be arranged so that father can rest a short while and then spend some time with his child. Surely weekends should include activities with the youngster.

These types of problems are individual and naturally vary with different families. The difficulties must be worked out using good judgment and the understanding that a family needs a father.

Let's take a look at the actual role of a father. He is traditionally the head of the household. His approach can be democratic. A balanced approach using discussion and explanations, and firm decisions when necessary, is basically most practical and successful.

ALL TOO OFTEN the father becomes a discipline figure. The mother tells the child that his father will punish him when he arrives home. Sometimes the father encourages this himself. The child should not be led to believe that his father is to be feared. The child should know that both parents agree and are consistent.

Many children look to their fathers as an idol. When young they often want to be in the same occupation. A father gets much pleasure from this. Many children actually do follow their father's footsteps even as they grow into adulthood.

A FATHER CAN be many things to many different children. He should try to spend available time being a friend and guide. He should be warm, affectionate, and firm when needed.

After that the former mansion of Dr. Benjamin Lyford and his wife (nee Reed) was moved from Strawberry Point to the property given by Mrs. Verrall. The mansion is now the headquarters of the Marin Audubon Society. Mrs. Bastian says the honorary membership is in recognition of Mrs. Verrall's "unusual and unselfish contribution to the preservation of local historical landmarks and the conservation of natural resources." The Lyford mansion was improved and decorated by Mrs. Donald Dickey in honor of her husband, a noted ornithologist. The reception will begin at 4 p.m. and conclude at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Livermore's birthday will be celebrated at luncheon and fashion show at Marin Art and Garden Center, of which she was the founder. Saturday Mrs. Livermore will be honored at a family dinner party at Montesol, the Livermore ranch near Calistoga.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT WALKER have sold their home on San Pedro Road, San Rafael and have bought a condominium apartment in Porto Bello on the San Rafael Canal. They'll now have a berth for their motor boat. These are busy days for the Walkers, as their son, Robert A. Walker Jr. celebrated his 18th birthday Saturday and he and his father enjoy boating greatly. So does Mrs. Walker but as she is the new president of Juvenile Hall Auxiliary, much of her time is devoted to the organization.

KATHY KEATON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Keaton of San Rafael has been vacationing in Hawaii with relatives for the past month. She writes that last week they visited the island of Molokai which she found "centuries removed in time and spirit from the bustling capital of Oahu."

Kathy was graduated from the Convent of the Sacred Heart, San Francisco, in June and will enter Seattle University in September. She left the islands aboard a President Lines ship and will arrive home on the first of August. Kathy and her parents will motor to Seattle in ample time for Kathy's enrollment at the university.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES H. JENKINS of Fairfax entertained at a barbecue Saturday at their home. Guests were the men on the staff of Pacific Music Camp at University of the Pacific and their wives. "Gypsy Jim," as the host called himself, presided at the barbecue.

MRS. STANLEY J. STEERE of Greenbrae has returned from a three-month tour of the Orient. She flew directly to Hawaii, then to Manila, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Taiwan and Japan, where she traveled by train, motor coach and steamer from Osaka and Beppu to the delightful mountain resort, Mt. Aso in Shimbara, then Nagasaki, Hiroshima and Kyoto. From Kyoto Mrs. Steere traveled to Nara, Hakone, Miyazaki, near Mt. Fuji, then to Kamakura, Yokohama and made a final stay in Tokyo before returning home via Honolulu.

High lights of the trip were living at a Japanese Inn, seeing the famous Kubuki dancers, Japanese theatres and visits to many of the beautiful Japanese gardens, shrines and temples. The arrival of Colonel John Glenn and his family in Nagasaki while she was there, added color to an already exciting trip.

Pauline Steere's sons, Stan Steere, Jr., recently out of five years' service in the Air Force, now affiliated with National Cash Register is living in Novato with his family, and Geoffrey is a senior at the University of California.

Pauline is on the board of directors of the Decorations Guild of Marin Art and Garden Center.

MR. AND MRS. DON PICKETT of Hawthorne Terrace, who have three children, Rebecca, Tom and Toby, have bought a lovely new Japanese home in Tiburon.

The Picketts who have been Hawthorne Terrace residents for nearly 10 years, expect to move into their new home in August.

Little Theater Major Interest For Alpha Phi's New President

MRS. WILLIAM BRODERICK

Little theater is one of the major leisure time interests of Mrs. William T. Broderick of Mill Valley, new president of the Marin County Alpha Phi Alumnae Club.

While she was a student at Montana State University she studied dramatics and participated in university productions but received her bachelor of arts degree with major in psychology. She was a member of Psi Chi, honorary psychology fraternity, and of the Masquers.

IN MARIN County, where she and her family have lived for six years, Louetta Broderick continued her interest in theater work by working with the Homestead Players when the group was started. Since then she has assisted in some capacity in almost every production.

She also worked with the Tam Valley Players, enacting with this group the role of Bianca in "The Taming of the Shrew" and, most recently, the role of Gabrielle, one of the mad women in "Madwoman of Chaillot." She has worked recently too with the Marin Variety Theater which has been presenting shows at Sabella's and is continuing her study of acting with Lucille Gordon of the Actor's Lab.

As new president of her sorority's alumnae club in Marin, Louetta hopes to expand the lived in Marin, occupying the position of treasurer for the last two years. She is also a member of the Mill Valley Branch of the American Assn. of University Women and of TWA Clipped Wings, of which she was president in 1958-59.

A native of Puente, Calif., Louetta spent most of her life in Oregon and Montana. She is married to William T. Broderick, a sales engineer for the Minneapolis-Honeywell Co. in San Francisco. They have three children, Linda, 5; Bonnie, 4; and Jill, one and a half.

BEFORE HER marriage she was a hostess with TWA, traveled extensively all over the United States and visited Europe, Haiti, Jamaica, Cuba and Mexico. After her marriage she worked for a while as secretary in the San Francisco TWA offices.

Other Marin County Alpha Phi Alumnae Club officers who will be taking up their duties in September are Mesdames Bryan McCarthy of San Rafael, vice president; Vernon C. Gustafsson of Mill Valley, secretary; Robert Mackay-Smith of Mill Valley, treasurer; A. Philip Cramp of San Rafael, Panhellenic delegate; Tore Noren of Mill Valley, Panhellenic alternate; and Alan Dunham of San Rafael, quarterly correspondent.

philanthropy work for both the heart association and the health department, since cardiac aid is Alpha Phi's national philanthropy. More than half the club's meetings have been devoted to preparing streptococci kits for the health department.

TWO OF THE outstanding events planned in the fall for the club are an actor's workshop program and one on interior decoration to be presented by the noted decorator Charles Durrie.

Louetta has been a member of the club ever since she has

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

It's A Good Idea To Carry Medical Traveler's Kit When Taking Vacation

Most people remain as healthy when traveling as they do at home. Some even feel better because they are relaxed and have taken a few precautions before starting the trip. Many carry a medical kit to lend assurance that remedies will be available in case of illness or accident. What to take depends upon where the individual expects to go.

Certain items do double duty. A pencil type flashlight, for example, has a medical use but also serves as a source of light when looking for something in the dark. The same can be said of scissors, tweezers, soap, safety pins, scarves, towels, cleansing tissues, and razor blades.

THERE IS NOTHING like tweezers to remove splinters and to hold a piece of cotton when cleansing a wound. A small roll of cotton weighs little and may come in handy to check bleeding, remove foreign bodies from the eye, or to insert between the toes because of ringworm or irritation. Sterile gauze, band aids, and adhesive tape are important when spending a vacation in the rough.

Several medicines ought to be included in the travel kit. A simple pain reliever like aspirin or emprin eases headache, backache, and toothache. An antacid such as baking soda or Gelusil is useful for indigestion. Cough medicines and nose drops are helpful for the common cold.

ONE OF THE anti-diarrhea products may come in handy. Old fashioned paregoric is hard to beat for abdominal cramps, and the sulfonamides are worthwhile for infectious diarrhea. Severe dysentery lasting more than 48 hours requires the services of a physician.

Antibiotics have been overused but they may prove lifesaving when the traveler develops a high fever and is unable to get medical attention.

One of the antihistamines will relieve itching and allergies. Seasickness requires an anti-motion sickness remedy. If you are nervous and easily upset, get a tranquilizer from your physician before leaving.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

REACTION TO NOVOCAINE

P. R. writes: What happens when there is a reaction to novocaine, which is given before dental work?

REPLY

This is the end of the dental appointment and drugs are given to control the reaction. The toxic effects include rapid pulse, drop in blood pressure, pallor, sweating, excitement, confusion, and unconsciousness.

DIET AFTER CORONARY

F. F. writes: My brother is coming home from the hospital to finish recovering from a coronary occlusion. Should I feed him any special foods?

REPLY

If your brother is overweight, his physician may suggest a low caloric diet or, if his blood cholesterol is high, a low fat diet may be indicated.

OCCASIONAL GLASS

J. B. writes: If a woman takes a glass of wine once or twice a week, is she considered an alcoholic?

REPLY

No, and to a Frenchman, she might be considered a piker. Most alcoholics drink many times a day to escape their problems and responsibilities.

CLOUDY VISION

F. S. writes: What causes attacks of blurry vision, lasting about five minutes each time?

REPLY

Eye examination would be needed to determine the cause, as there are several possibilities. Spasm of a retinal vessel is one; glaucoma is another.

ALLERGY INCIDENCE

M. N. writes: We hear so much about allergies, I wonder just how common they are?

REPLY

One in 10 Americans suffers from some form of allergy, ranging from mild to severe.

Today's Health Hint — Keep a sharp eye on toddlers at the beach.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, once a firebrand in defense policy battles, has packed away his "Uncertain Trumpet" and deliberately blended into the Pentagon background.

In the year since President John F. Kennedy chose him as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Taylor has kept away from the public eye while developing his chosen role—that of a bridge between the professional military and the civilian authority.

He has purposefully subordinated himself as Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's chief military adviser.

From all available evidence, Taylor has avoided trying to keep open any special channel to the White House where he served as Kennedy's personal military adviser before the President elevated him to JCS chairman.

But he retains undiminished stature at the White House where the multilingual soldier-scholar is accepted as intellectual equal.

Those in position to know say McNamara and Taylor make a good team. Both are strong willed men of firm opinions. They have differed, and will again, but there is mutual respect.

There is respect, too, between combat-veteran Taylor and the other military chiefs—but the Air Force and Navy feel the JCS chairman still has too much of an Army point of view.

On a number of key issues, Taylor has disagreed with all the service chiefs—Gen. Early G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff and a protégé, as well as Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, and Adm. George W. Anderson, soon to leave as chief of naval operations.

These disagreements have been marked by an absence of personal conflict.

A year ago, there were all sorts of predictions that Taylor would clash heatedly and repeatedly with LeMay and possibly Anderson.

This was because of Taylor's background of strong partisanship for Army views and his record of conflict particularly with the Air Force in the days when he was Army chief of staff during the Eisenhower administration.

People remembered the stands he took in the "Uncertain Trumpet," a book he published after retiring as Army chief in 1959.

The book was a blast at Eisenhower administration defense policy, particularly reliance on massive nuclear retaliation and what Taylor considered neglect of conventional forces, especially the Army.

One of Taylor's most controversial proposals in that book called for replacement of the joint chiefs with a single chief of staff supported by a military advisory committee.

When Taylor, his chest stacked with ribbons, appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee last August he declared: "I am not returning, if you gentlemen confirm me, as a crusader for change but rather one to make the present system as effective as possible."

It should be noted that much of what Taylor has advocated in his book already had been adopted as policy by McNamara and his new civilian leadership before Taylor returned to the Pentagon last Oct. 1.

The slim, frosty-eyed general who jumped into Normandy during World War II with his 101st Airborne Division and who commanded the 8th Army in Korea has seen his doctrine of flexible response become the order of the day.

By flexible response, Taylor meant the ability to deal with any kind of military threat from subversion and guerrilla warfare to all-out nuclear war.

Under the Kennedy administration, the Army has been built up markedly—although it still is 25,000 men below the million-man level he has advocated and still supports.

Instead of moving to junk the joint chiefs system—as many had feared—Taylor has bent his efforts to streamlining its operations. He prods the joint Army-Navy-Air Force-Marine staff to develop studies and papers that are clear and persuasive, and to have them ready in time to have impact on the civilian leaders making the decisions.

Taylor tries to make certain the views of the chiefs—their separate positions as well as his own, which may differ—reach McNamara and the President in time to figure in the decisions to be made. The chairman's duty, he believes, is to see that every service gets its day in court.

During the Eisenhower days, the emphasis was on reaching a compromise—on avoiding "split papers," and some decisions were delayed as much as two years until some compromise was ready to be forwarded topside.

In contrast, McNamara encourages the presentation of individual views.

But the defense secretary is more demanding. He requires that presentations spell out reasons and alternatives. It no longer is enough for the JCs to send up a paper saying simply "the joint chiefs recommend—"

McNamara, hard driving and sometimes accused of being ruthless, is admired by Taylor who has been accused of being ruthless himself.

The defense secretary and the JCS chairman are on a "Bob" and "Max" footing and lunch together at least once a week.

McNamara does not stand on protocol. If he feels the need to, he sometimes comes one flight from his spacious office to visit Taylor in the chief's suite on the Pentagon second deck.

When Taylor sits in with the top level National Security Council at the White House, he does so on McNamara's invitation.

Of course, Taylor's relationship with Kennedy has definitely changed from the time he was on the White House staff as the President's military adviser. He sees Kennedy much less, but he feels his words carry greater weight now by virtue of his position as JCS chairman representing the other military chiefs.

Taylor's influence remains undeniably strong in the executive offices. He has had a leading part in formulating policy on aid to Communist-threatened India, on the war in South Viet Nam, on a host of other problems.

During the Cuban crisis—which broke out only two weeks after Taylor moved into the JCS chairman's post—the general was picked by Kennedy for service on the "Ex Com," a top level group which charted U. S. moves that ultimately led to the Soviet Union's backdown.

Although Taylor sometimes splits with the other chiefs, there is nothing personal in their disagreements.

Some high Air Force officers profess to see a pattern in which, they say, Taylor and Wheeler tend to line up on many issues against LeMay and Anderson. But top Navy authorities say they have detected no firm pattern.

On two major issues, Taylor opposed the stand of all the other three. LeMay, Anderson and Wheeler all favored pushing ahead with the Air Force's RS70 bomber development and with the Skybolt missile. Taylor ranged himself on the side of McNamara against both projects. Both have been dropped.

Approaching 62, Taylor carries his age well. He is slender and wiry, and his iron-gray hair shows no sign of thinning.

The four-star general lives at nearby Fort Myer, Va., in a comfortable home overlooking the capital.

Early in the morning, he walks much of the way to the Pentagon, cutting through Arlington National Cemetery where many old comrades lie.

A six-day work week is normal, but on Saturdays he shows up sometimes in a relaxed mood wearing a sport jacket and slacks.

READY!

Newspaper Advertising Readers Are Ready To Buy!

Newspaper readers are attracted to your advertising because it interests them. They are more apt to be live, "ready-to-buy" prospects than is the case with readers and viewers of other advertising media.

Live prospects are easier to sell. They actually shop the newspaper ads—they want to be sold, and are looking for information to help make a buying decision. Take housewives, for example—research* proves that 75% of them check the ads in the daily newspaper before making their main shopping trips of the week.

It's that kind of readiness on the part of newspaper readers that can mean ready sales for you!

Scientist Sees Cereal As New Food For Man

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP) — The trouble with the human race, as Dr. John Yudkin views it, is that it has been civilized for a mere 10,000 years. Yudkin views it nutritionally — he is one of science's most respected authorities on human nutrition.

"For the greatest part of the million or more years since man has existed as a separate species, he ate mostly meat and offal, with occasionally vegetable foods such as leaves, fruit, berries and roots," Yudkin said.

Then some 10,000 years ago human beings discovered cereals. That was the beginning of their agriculture and so of their civilized state. In that time the race has switched from a diet heavy in proteins and fats to one heavy in carbohydrates derived from vegetable foods.

But the previous million years had made their mark on the human physiology — it was adapted to being nourished mainly by animal proteins and fats, in Yudkin's view and the last 10,000 years have not been enough to undo it.

"This is supported by the fact that allergy to meat is extremely rare, while allergy to cereal and cow's milk are the commonest forms of food allergy," Yudkin said. "Again, man's failure to adapt to the cereal-based diet is indicated by the fact that protein deficiency is the most common nutrient deficiency seen in man."

He blamed such present-day common ills of people as heart disease, obesity and diabetes on this racial failure to adapt nutritionally to much carbohydrate and relatively less protein and fats in what they eat. What's more, he added, it is going to get worse rather than better.

For this he blamed the food technologists. They're getting more and more skilled in separating "palatability from nutritional value." It used to be, a long, long time ago, the foods people found most palatable were also the foods best for them nutritionally. That is no longer so, he said.

"We may soon be presented with something that has the texture, taste, smell and cooking properties of beef steak but containing neither protein, vitamins or any other nutrients. And we shall eat it because we like it.

"More important, we are already presented with very palatable sweets, chocolate, ice cream, cakes and drinks which supply us with little but carbohydrate and calories. As a result, we eat these instead of, or as well as, some of our other foods so that they may displace part of our diet and also add to it.

"There is reason to believe that some of the diseases of civilization are at least in part caused by the fact that our diet shows a persistently high intake of carbohydrate, much of which comes from sugar."

Yudkin has made his world scientific reputation in the years he has been professor of nutrition at the University of London. He presented his newest nutritional views in the technical journal, "The Lancet."

State Aid Is On Planner Agenda

An outline for a general planning program under the state urban planning assistance program will be considered tonight at 8 o'clock by the Mill Valley Planning Commission in the city hall.

Under the state aid schedule, the city of Mill Valley could apply for financial assistance for planning of certain areas of the city, such as east Mill Valley, said planning aide Jean McLean.

Also on the commission's agenda will be further consideration of the long-discussed north ridge rezoning. The residential neighborhood is presently zoned for a variety of uses and has been under study for several years.

Tam Stamp Club Being Formed

Organization of a new Marin club for stamp collectors, the Tamalpais Stamp Club, was announced today by Donald McPherson of 169 Birch Avenue, Corte Madera.

The club will meet the second and fourth Fridays of each month at 7:30 p.m. in room 107 of Redwood High School, said McPherson, who is temporary president.

Other temporary officers are Morris Michaels of 15 Mohawk Avenue, Corte Madera, secretary, and Edward Mullen Jr. of 16 Broadmoor Avenue, San Anselmo, treasurer.

Senate Candidate Did Not Put It That Way

BALTIMORE (AP)—After a candidate for the Maryland Senate had addressed members of the Mount Royal Democratic Club, the club bulletin reported:

"The senatorial candidate... has continued to indicate by his talks and speeches that he has become increasingly familiar with the problems of downtown livers."

Test-Fired Missiles Are Also Space Labs

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Atlas and Titan intercontinental range missiles test-fired here often double as space laboratories.

Attached to the side of the rockets are special cylinders carrying scientific experiments to study such things as space radiation, micrometeorites, the earth's magnetic field, re-entry shock and effect of weightlessness on new fuels.

A meteorite is a meteor that hits earth.

Peking Losing Ties To Chinese Abroad

HONG KONG (UPI) — The open split between Peking and Moscow has apparently seriously undermined the Red Chinese persistent effort to woo the important community of more than 16 million Chinese living abroad, principally in Southeast Asia.

As a consequence of its increasingly obvious isolation from the largest "have" country in the Communist world, Peking is now giving reassurances to the "overseas Chinese" that it can produce enough foodstuffs, industrial and consumer goods to survive on its own.

Letters received here from Chinese friends and relatives in Southeast Asian countries reveal a general perplexity about the present predicament of Communist-run China. There is worry over the future.

The overseas Chinese have always cherished the hope that their mother land will one day become prosperous and strong. The collapse of Peking's "great leap forward" has shown them that China cannot do without aid on a gigantic scale, let alone raise the living standard of her 700 million people.

Most of the overseas Chinese have little understanding of the issues involved in the Sino-Soviet quarrel. But they know of the withdrawal of Russian economic assistance and technical cooperation from their country.

"What will come to China now?" is a frequent question asked in letters addressed to Hong Kong, where people are regarded as being better informed about mainland conditions than they are in Bangkok, Singapore or Jakarta.

In an apparent attempt to counter this disillusionment, the Communist newspapers in Hong Kong have in recent weeks filled their columns with reports of improved living conditions inside China, of progress in agriculture and industry.

This emphasis on economic reports is coupled with a top-level insistence on the necessity of "relying on one's own strength."

For instance, during the visit to Peking last month of the North Korean delegation led by President Choi Young-Kon, Chinese head of state Liu Shao-chi praised the Koreans for building an independent economy and stressed the importance of this example for other countries.

Always with a sensitive ear to sentiment among the overseas Chinese, Peking gave a warning to fellow Asians against economic dependence on non-Asian countries—such as the Soviet Union.

The desire to build up good state relations with other Asians, as opposed to non-Asians, appears to have been the motivating reason behind Peking's attitude towards the anti-Chinese riots in Indonesia last May.

Following the disturbances which inflicted serious damage on Chinese properties and threatened Chinese lives in that neutralist country, Peking maintained a stony silence for 20 days.

Finally, an authoritative Peoples Daily editorial on the riots laid the blame at the doorstep of "U.S. imperialism."

RETIRING — Charles B. White, administrative assistant to Supt. Lawrence E. Wilson of the state correctional training facility in Soledad, Monterey county, has announced his retirement, effective July 30. White lives at 25 Sirard Lane, San Rafael. He was executive secretary to the Warden of San Quentin from 1949 to 1957.

Parks Proposal To Be Discussed

Revision of Marin County's 1943 master plan for parks and recreation facilities will be discussed by the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission today, at 7:30 p.m. in room 332 in the civic center.

Kelvin J. Nelson, new parks and recreation director, will present proposals for a new master plan for development of recreation facilities throughout the county.

Possible changes in the ordinance under which the commission operates will also be considered, specifically to include the duties of the recreation director.

The tomato was believed by Americans as recently as about a century ago to be poisonous.

Incorporation Move Delayed By Commission

The Marin County Boundary Commission yesterday delayed any action on boundaries of the proposed incorporation of Tiburon pending further study.

Acting Chairman William D. Fusselman said the commission will consider the proposal at 9 a.m. next Monday.

Leland H. Jordan, attorney for those seeking incorporation, submitted for commission approval a proposed petition for incorporation including a description of the area involved.

The Tiburon incorporation move in effect suspends an annexation move by Belvedere for 90 days from July 2. Belvedere and Tiburon are bidding for the same land.

County Counsel F. Warren McGuire said when the commission studies Tiburon's proposed incorporation, it should:

(1) Compare the boundaries with existing boundaries. (2) Determine if there is overlapping or conflict. (3) Indicate if there are districts in the area which perform functions that

Firecracker Rips Phone Booth Top

A telephone booth in Ross was partially destroyed in identical manner last Thursday night, according to Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.
